

One of President Charles de Gaulle's many bodyguards kept a sharp watch as the French president spoke in Saint-Claude, France, last week during a four-week tour of the provinces. Security precautions were intensified since the report on the first day of de Gaulle's trip of a secret army assassination plot.

Rusk and De Gaulle Study Differences

French Plan to Have Own Atomic Power Big Obstacle

PARIS (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk meets today with North Atlantic Treaty Organization leaders after an "animated, friendly and searching" talk with President Charles de Gaulle that ranged over French-American differences.

Rusk, here to discuss nuclear tactics for the Atlantic Alliance and other Western issues, was to confer with the permanent council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, then have lunch with NATO Secretary-General Dirk U. Stikker.

U.S. opposition to De Gaulle's plan to give his armies their own atomic arsenal was one of the main points discussed by Rusk and the French president for an hour and a quarter Tuesday in the Elysee Palace.

Nuclear Dispute

Rusk told De Gaulle in effect that creation of an independent French nuclear striking force would be a deterrent against Communist attack. He reportedly made no offer to share nuclear secrets that only Britain now gets from the United States.

De Gaulle listened pleasantly, but apparently remained adamant in his determination to concentrate French resources on development of France's own nuclear force.

Rusk told newsmen later it had been a most interesting conversation. An American source said the talk had produced no agreement or any new proposals, but that

Sandbags and Shelters Built Near Red Wall By West Berlin Police

BERLIN (AP) — West Berlin police announced today that sandbag barriers and shelters are being erected at exposed points along the Red wall for protection of their men from East German gunfire.

Police said East German border guards have become trigger happy since one East German policeman was killed Monday in trying to stop a tunnel escape by four East Berliners.

More than 100 shots were fired along the border that night and at least 20 shots were heard Tuesday night.

The East German government charged Tuesday that the policeman was killed by a West Berlin helicopter in the tunnel escape. West Berlin police said he was killed by his own comrades shooting at the West Berliner.

Malfunction of Missile Balks Nuclear Test

Device Destroyed In Flight Without Nuclear Explosion

HONOLULU (AP) — The malfunction of a Thor missile forced the United States to destroy a gigantic nuclear device in flight near Johnston Island late Tuesday night without exploding it.

The abortive attempt to set off a nuclear device at high altitude above the Pacific test site was the second failure in two tries.

No specific explanation was given for the failure. Joint Task Force 8 said in its official statement that the shot was scrapped "due to a malfunction in the system."

No Nuclear Blast

The nuclear device was blown apart and dropped harmlessly into the ocean. There was no nuclear detonation.

It was assumed, however, that the "system" referred to trouble with the Thor's tracking system—the same problem that caused failure of the first Johnston test shot June 4.

Tuesday night's test was to have been the biggest and highest in the United States' current Pacific test series. The nuclear package was classified as megaton-plus.

GOP to Resist Any Effort to Force Vote On Medical Care

Bill Stays in Committee Despite Compromise Hints

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans threatened an all-out fight today against any administration effort to force a Senate vote on President Kennedy's plan for health care for the elderly.

The Kennedy bill, which calls for Social Security financing of hospital and nursing home benefits, remains stalled in the House Ways and Means Committee despite indications that the President is willing to compromise on some of its features.

If this situation doesn't change, Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., said he will offer the proposal as a rider on some House-passed revenue measure.

"I am determined to get a vote in the Senate on this, come what may," Anderson said.

Record Vote Sought

Since the House must originate such legislation, it would be unlikely to accept such a Senate amendment. The Anderson move would be designed to put senators on record on the issue in a campaign year.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said in a separate interview that if the Democrats try such a maneuver, they will find they have a fight on their hands.

"We will certainly be loaded with ammunition in this case," Dirksen said. "This proposal will require lengthy and detailed discussion in the Senate. We will be ready for them."

Asked if Republican talk might delay a possible mid-September adjournment of Congress, Dirksen shrugged. He said that would depend somewhat on when the Democrats chose to make their move.

With some notable exceptions, congressional Republicans appear ready to take their case to the

Founder of Store Dies In Appleton

Henry Gloudemans Started Concern Over 50 Years Ago

Henry A. Gloudemans, founder of the present Gloudemans Department Store in Appleton, died suddenly in his home in Appleton Tuesday. Gloudemans, 87, lived at 315 S. Walnut St.

He retired from active management of the department store at 430 W. College Ave. in 1938 with his co-founder, Roscoe T. Gage, 420 W. Fifth St., Appleton.

The store he and Gage founded in 1911 was the first major commercial development on the west end of College Avenue. The store celebrated its 50th anniversary in October, 1961.

Came From Chilton

Gloudemans came to Appleton with Gage from Chilton, where they had operated a store. They bought a building on the avenue and started their business, Gloudemans-Gage Co.

They made major additions to the store building in 1913 and 1916. When they retired, Gloudemans' son, Raymond J. Gloudemans, took over management. The name of the company which operates the store was later changed to Gloudemans Co. Inc.

The last major addition to the store came in 1958, when the company bought and razed the Joe Schomisch barber shop adjacent to the store and put on an addition.

Gloudemans was a former director of Outagamie County Bank and Appleton Building & Loan Association.

Woman Accused Of $16,000 Theft

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Anna A. Geiser, 46, a veteran employee of the Bruce Publishing Co., Milwaukee, has been charged with the theft of $16,000 from the firm's credit union by false representations.

Miss Geiser, a proofreader at the firm, waived preliminary hearing when brought before County Judge F. Ryan Duffy Jr. on the charge Tuesday. She was bound over to Circuit Court under $1,500 bail.

Authorities said Miss Geiser admitted that she had forged the names of two co-signers on a promissory note for $18,276 which she gave the Bruce Credit Union.

Counsel for Miss Geiser said she had received several loans from the credit union over 10 years to obtain money to support her ill mother and father, who since have died. The 1938 loan was obtained to refinance the old man said was $17,500 in counterfeits. She paid off about $2,000 of the new loan before she defaulted, he said.

The answer is generally the same. Life had become unbearable for the French population. Terror, violence and murders were everywhere in the streets.

"I don't want my son when he is 20 to see what I have seen," said a 25-year-old mother who was holding her baby in her arms. A young European had been shot near her when she was walking in Algiers, and the blood of the dying boy had splashed on her skirt.

The reasons why others fled France may be less emotional but they are equally marked by the fear of what might have happened to them if they stayed.

Small farmers in the "bled" (Algerian countryside) left because French troops were withdrawn and Algerian forces started demanding money threatening them if they did not leave.

4 Counties Would Lose By Change

MADISON (AP) — The reapportionment plan the Republican majority will champion in this legislative session limits State Assembly changes to the addition of two seats in Waukesha County.

Republican sources today disclosed details of the plan in advance of its formal introduction in the State Senate.

Under the GOP proposal, Douglas County would lose one of its two assemblymen and the counties of Florence, Forest and Langlade, now represented by Assemblyman John Gray, D-Antigo, would be added to surrounding Assembly districts.

The two seats freed by the action would be assigned to Waukesha County, giving it four instead of two representatives.

Opposition Certain

Democrats, including Gov. Gaylord Nelson and Atty. Gen. John W. Reynolds, are sure to object to the plan since it offers no further assembly representation for Milwaukee County. The governor has said he would veto a reapportionment bill he did not consider equitable.

Congressional district changes called for in the GOP proposal were known to ask elimination of the present 9th district represented by Rep. Lester Johnson, D-Black River Falls.

Rep. Melvin Laird, R-Marshfield, conferred with GOP lawmakers Tuesday and said he would explain proposed congressional district changes to his Wisconsin colleagues in Washington, D.C.

The state's congressmen have been flooding legislators with questions regarding realignment of the districts.

The present 9th District territory would be absorbed by the 10th, 7th and 3rd congressional districts.

By changing Assembly and Senate boundaries to a minimum, Republicans hope to get solid party backing for passage of the two bills.

Fight On Senate Floor

As Republicans worked to complete their bills Tuesday they took time out to enjoy an intraparty fight in state Senate Democratic ranks.

Sen. Davis Donnelly, D-Eau Claire, offered a resolution that accused Atty. Gen. John Reynolds of not doing his duty toward the Legislature.

Donnelly asked that lawmakers name a special counsel to represent them in any legal proceedings that might follow adoption of a reapportionment bill.

Reynolds has tried to force a reapportionment with a Federal Court suit and the action led to the recall of the Legislature by Gov. Gaylord Nelson.

Reynolds has insisted he will ask the court Monday to appoint a special master and proceed with its own redistricting plans.

Move for Regular Session Held Illegal

Reynolds Declares Any Bills Passed Would Not be Valid

MADISON (AP) — Atty. Gen. John W. Reynolds held today that the Republican controlled Legislature's move to call itself into regular session in defiance of Gov. Gaylord Nelson's special summons is illegal.

And the attorney general said that by reconvening the Legislature on its own motion, the lawmakers have automatically made invalid any law they might pass.

The attorney general's opinion was contained in a letter to Gov. Nelson who called the special session at the request of three federal judges and made its only order of business reapportionment of Wisconsin's political districts.

When they gathered in Madison Monday to take control of the session by gaining the required number of signatures on a petition to call the Legislature into a recess session.

The move was designed to give Republicans the decision over what matters could be taken up during deliberations.

In the Assembly, the session was convened under terms of the resolution by which the Legislature recessed in January.

Riding in Senate

On the Senate side, however, the matter is far from settled and Sen. Frank Panzer, R-Brownsville, the presiding officer, has ruled the Senate is in both regular and special session.

Reynolds said in his opinion that the Wisconsin Constitution provides that when the Legislature is convened by the governor in a special session "no business shall be transacted except as shall be necessary to accomplish the special purposes for which it was convened."

"The calling of itself back into session is not within the special purposes for which the Legislature was convened."

Beck Enters U. S. Prison

Ex-President of Teamsters Says He 'Won't Stay Down'

SEATTLE (AP) — Dave Beck, 68-year-old president of the former Teamsters' Union, goes to federal prison today, but he says he does not have to stay down just because he was knocked down.

Beck, wealthy Seattle businessman, was expected at the U.S. marshal's office in Tacoma. From there he was to take the short boat trip to McNeil Island federal penitentiary in Puget Sound.

On the eve of his five-year term for filing fraudulent tax returns, he told a reporter: "You don't have to fall down just because you've been knocked down. What matters is, 'Do you get up again?'"

Loses 5-Year Fight

His arrival at McNeil Island will mark the close of five years of legal maneuvers to stay free. Beck was convicted on two charges which played a minor part in his tax evasion trial in 1958-59.

The charges were filing fraudulent tax returns for the union's Joint Council 28 Building Association in Seattle. Beck swears he never saw the returns, but the courts said he should have known what they contained. They were information returns involving no tax payments.

Government charges that he evaded paying $240,000 in taxes for the years 1950-53 were dismissed, but a few days ago the U.S. Supreme Court upheld his conviction on the false union returns. That meant Beck, a one-time laundry truck driver who became one of the most powerful labor figures in the nation, had two concurrent five-year sentences to serve and a fine of $20,000 to pay.

Legislative Council Session Called Off

MADISON (AP) — A meeting of a special 19-member Legislative Council Committee, which had planned to draw up reapportionment plans, has been cancelled.

The first meeting of the group had been set for Thursday in Stevens Point. The executive secretary of the Legislative Council notified members of the committee, however, that the session had been cancelled because the Legislature has convened.

Assembly speaker David Blanchard, R-Edgerton, chairman of the council, had named 12 legislators and seven public members to the committee.

Chairman John McClellan, D-Ark., of the Senate investigations subcommittee probing the night club entertainment field, spoke out Tuesday after listening to a day long recital of white slave traffic. The chairman said the American Guild of Variety Artists has no place "in the house of decent unionism."

Procedures to Get Executive Orders Altered

White House Tells How to Find Way To Kennedy's Desk

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's latest executive order—hot off the White House mureograph—spells out a dozen easy-to-take steps for getting an executive order to the President's desk.

The White House produced the new order Tuesday, the last sent to Kennedy under a 14-year-old order on orders.

The changes it makes "are relatively minor but are deemed necessary and desirable in the light of experience under the existing order," the White House said.

Justification From now on, when a government agency wants the President to issue an executive order or a proclamation, the outfit's boss must supply a letter explaining and justifying the request.

This has been the practice, the White House said. The new order simply makes it formal.

The order also authorizes the director of the Bureau of the Budget, who is in charge of proclamations for the observance of special days and similar occasions, to tap someone else for the paperwork. He can assign the chore to whatever agency "he may consider appropriate."

Budget directors, the White House said, have been doing this for a long time.

A few things to watch in whipping up a proposed executive order:

Spelling, Punctuation—Spelling and punctuation. Under provisions of the order the style has to conform to the Government Printing Office manual.

The title. A proposed order or proclamation has to have a suitable one.

Geographic names. They must be spelled in line with the decisions of the Board on Geographic Names.

The paper it's on. "Proposed executive orders and proclamations shall be typewritten on paper approximately 8 x 13 inches, shall have a left-hand margin of approximately 1 1/2 inches and a right-hand margin of approximately 1 inch."

Once those details are out of the way, the order-proposer submits his document—plus seven copies—to the budget director, along with a letter explaining its "nature, purpose, background and effect."

If it gets a clean bill of health in the Budget Bureau, the proposal goes to the attorney general for a once-over on questions of form and legality. Under the new order, the attorney general doesn't have to do this personally.

With an okay from the attorney general, a routine order or proclamation goes to the director of the Office of the Federal Register, who checks the spelling and makes sure the document measures up to the style rules.

If it measures up, the proposal is sent to President Kennedy, the man who decides whether it will become an order of the government or a piece of waste paper.

Heart Trouble Worries NASA

Space Agency Frets On Possibility of Peril for Astronauts

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Space Agency has disclosed that it is concerned about what might happen to a mercury space craft launching in the event an astronaut develops heart irregularity shortly before a scheduled launching.

The administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, James E. Webb, said Tuesday that this is one of the factors involved in current studies of Astronaut Donald K. Slayton, who has an occasional slight heart flutter difficulty.

Slayton, a native of Sparta, Wis., was unable to make the second space flight because of this flutter.

Webb said he has not yet received a report on the recent examination of Slayton conducted by Boston heart specialist, Dr. Paul Dudley White.

Dr. White's Help "We asked Dr. White to help us concerning the question of what to do regarding this outstanding man," Webb said.

"It is not just a question of medical history. It is a question of what would happen in the last few minutes of a countdown should fibrillation (heart flutter) start with Slayton or any other astronaut."

"It is a question of U.S. accomplishments and whether they would be unduly delayed because of the substitution of an astronaut at the last moment."

Asked whether this did not imply a gloomy future for Slayton, Webb said he did not mean to give that impression. He noted that six of the seven astronauts work on the ground during every flight.

"Slayton has a great opportunity to be of service," he said, "and this may well be on the ground or it may be in flight."

Webb added that since Slayton is an Air Force officer, NASA will work in close collaboration with that service in determining his future as a Mercury astronaut.

Generosity of Strangers

Family of Nine Orphans Happy, But Bewildered

WARROAD, Minn. (AP)—The orphaned Foster family of nine children is happily bewildered today, but still together—thanks to the generosity of strangers.

When both of their parents died within a year, it looked as though the eight young Fosters remaining at the home here would have to move in with relatives.

Foster died last September from cancer, a year—almost to the day—after the same disease had claimed his wife.

Quits Her Job But 20-year-old Rita, the oldest of the clan of nine brothers and sisters, quit her job in Minneapolis and came to Warroad last fall, determined that the family keep on "growing up together."

Her determination attracted attention of the Grand Forks, N.D. Herald, which made its story on the Fosters available to the Associated Press for national distribution, along with a family picture. Touched by Rita's decision to take on this responsibility, the nation answered with nearly 2,000 letters containing some $4,000 in cash and gifts.

Sends Allowance A Mississippi lad sent his $1 weekly allowance, there were clothes for the children and the employees of an Ohio industrial plant set up a $450 charge account for the family at a department store in nearby Roseau, Minn.

"I just don't understand it yet," says Rita. "Why, these people have never seen us, they never even heard of us before."

But still the letters trickle in. Rita, who never asked for help, concedes that they were a major factor in keeping things going until railroad retirement and veteran's benefits due her father could be started.

Money in Bank The family now lives on those official payments. The gift money remaining has been banked against future emergencies.

Everybody goes to school regularly, except "Mother" Rita.

Among the thousands of letters Rita revealed, there were several proposals of marriage. But she brushed them off with the comment that "I've got enough trouble now without looking for more."

Once, however, she jokingly told one of the 4-year-old twins that she was going to accept one of the proposals.

"Oh goody," was the reaction, "more kids."

Millions in Money Bills Held Up

2 Octogenarians Fight Stubbornly Over New Head for Key Committee

Because of the feud some of the bills have been hanging fire for two months.

The Secret Service, which guards the President, was the first to feel the pinch. Its 706 agents and clerks won't receive their pay this week and are working on the cuff.

A Justice Department spokesman summed up the situation by saying, "It's tight."

There is no sign that the deadlock will clear up quickly.

'Tiros 5' Could Pave Way for U. S., Soviet Cooperation in Space

Satellite Will Photograph Cloud Cover, Including Sky Over Russia

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—America's newest weather satellite, Tiros V, orbiting on its hurricane and storm hunting mission, may prove to be the first step toward a cooperative space program between the United States and the Soviet Union.

The weather watch satellite, launched Tuesday from Cape Canaveral, will photograph cloud cover over a much greater area of the world than any of the previous four Tiros satellites. Included is the sky above most of the Soviet Union.

During its anticipated four-month useful lifetime, Tiros V's two wide-angle cameras are expected to snap hundreds of pictures of weather systems over the U.S.S.R. A National Aeronautics and Space Administration official said the photographs will be available to Soviet meteorologists if they want them.

Reds Want Pictures Presumably the Russians will ask for the pictures. Earlier this month, American and Soviet scientists signed a pact in Geneva agreeing to share data received from their respective weather satellites—with a long-range look at possibly building a broad mutual space research program.

The representatives of the two major space powers also discussed the possibility of coordinating tracking, launch dates and satellite objectives to reduce exploration overlaps. There was no provision for a common launching.

As yet, the Soviet Union has not launched a weather satellite. It reportedly is developing one, but it is not known whether it is similar to the Tiros system.

The pact was the first concrete result of an exchange of letters earlier this year between President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev. Kennedy proposed five areas of space research and Khrushchev six in which the nations might cooperate.

Non-Controversial The non-controversial meteorological satellite was selected as the first area of discussion, with communications satellites expected next. Further discussions between the scientists of the two nations are scheduled soon in Moscow.

Tiros V is whizzing about the earth every 100.5 minutes at peak speed of 17,140 miles an hour and altitudes ranging from 367 to 604 miles.

A guidance error shot the satellite higher than planned but this did not interfere with its camera eyes.

On the first orbit, the vehicle transmitted pictures of cloud cover over the southeastern United States and a few orbits later relayed photos of storm clouds off Newfoundland.

The launching was timed to coincide with the 1962 hurricane season, which began last week.

Neither side has accepted the other's demands. Neither has shown any signs of wishing to compromise. Each has accused the other of being stubborn and unreasonable.

Both Hayden and Cannon are backed to the hilt, say informants, by their committees.

AMA Critics Claim Hierarchy Thwarts Wishes of Physicians

Recent Poll Showed 51 Per Cent Of Doctors Favor Social Security

BY ARTHUR J. SNIDER
Chicago Daily News Service
CHICAGO — A recent poll by Medical Economics, business journal for physicians, showed that 51 per cent of those responding favored including doctors under the Social Security system.
Yet the policy making house of delegates of the American Medical Association has repeatedly turned down the proposal by overwhelming margins, leaving physicians as the largest occupational group not covered by the act.
AMA critics cite this as an example of how the hierarchy of organized medicine thwarts the wishes of the rank and file members.

Third of a Series

The AMA defends the policy by noting that doctors seldom retire at age 65. About 85 per cent of physicians between ages 65 and 72 are active and earning regular incomes.
A Chicago delegate to the AMA convention defends the policy on this additional ground:

"Morally, we cannot oppose extension of Social Security to health insurance if we are to urge coverage for ourselves of other features of the Social Security law.
"There are times when policy considerations of the AMA must override the will of the majority—if indeed there is a majority. Whether an official nose count would show a majority must remain an academic question for the AMA organizational setup does not provide for a referendum of its 185,000 members.
Policy is decided by the house of delegates, elected on the basis of one delegate for each 1,000 members and apportioned among the states according to physician population.

No Referendum

In December, 1958, the house closed the door on any thought of a referendum with a resolution declaring itself to be "sufficiently well informed to present adequately the views of physicians of America on the question."

Nevertheless, polls in more than a dozen states have endorsed inclusion of physicians, and the subject is certain to come up again next week when the 111th annual convention assembles in Chicago.
Under the representative form of AMA government, the will of its members must be reflected sooner or later.

The AMA is a federation of 54 state and territorial medical associations with authority flowing upward from county societies to the state and then national body. A delegation cannot endlessly foil the desires of its constituents and still continue to represent them.

Critics assert that the same convention delegates are seen year after year—that the system perpetuates a "trust" of like-minded people.

Delegate Turnover

However, the AMA notes there was a 36 per cent delegate turnover in a recent three-year period.
Another complaint is that specialists dominate in delegations out of proportion to their numbers in American medicine.

General practitioners, comprising about 50 per cent of the nation's doctors, make up about one-fourth of the delegate body.

One explanation may be that the small-town practice of many GP's removes them from the centers of organizational activity. Another is their heavy burden of patients, which does not allow them much free time.

Members of the policy making parliament are usually men aged 30 or beyond who are successful enough in their practice to spend two weeks to a month per year on unpaid tasks.

Most of them have served their local societies as officers or in committee work for several years.

Organization Men

By the time a doctor has achieved one of the half a dozen top positions in the AMA, he is a seasoned organization man.

For example, the current AMA president, Dr. Leonard W. Larson, needed 30 years to attain the top rung. He began in the 1930s as a member of the legislative committee of the North Dakota State Medical Association.
Then followed a series of state and lesser AMA appointments before he came to the attention of leaders as chairman of an AMA liaison committee on lay-sponsored medical care plans.

In 1950, he was elected to the board of trustees, the training ground for the presidency.

As in any large organization, the AMA is being increasingly run from the top because the problems it deals with inevitably become more complex. But the leadership cannot stray too far from the dictates of the delegates, lest it be reversed.

Site Rejected

Recently, the trustees selected Las Vegas as the site of its 1963 winter meeting, but the house rejected it and chose Portland, Ore.

Nevertheless, some medical spokesmen like Dr. Caldwell Eselstyn, head of the Physicians Committee for the Health Care of the Aged through social security, say never in history have so many dedicated physicians felt the AMA did not speak for them.

He said there is growing support for starting a rival organization, the National Academy of Health.

Bond Sales For May Total Over $297,000

Fewer H Series Securities Bought, E Sales About Same

May sales of E and H Savings Bonds in a five-county area surrounding the Fox Cities totaled $297,580. Total sales for the first five months of 1962 in the five counties were $1,751,223.

Demands for E Bonds in the state remains about the same as in 1961. However, H Bond sales have fallen off. "Many investors have been attracted by the higher interest rate offered by other financial institutions," said Edwin L. Bersagel, state director.

A large number of persons in retirement who are holders of E Bonds are exchanging them for current interest paying H Bonds. Accrued interest on the Series E Bonds so exchanged need not be declared for federal income tax purposes until the H Bond matures or is cashed. Savings bond interest is not subject to state income tax.

May sales in the area counties were $23,637 in Calumet; $136,209 in Outagamie; $14,843 in Shaw-

Federal Aid Okayed For Nelson Planning, Development Program

MADISON (AP)—The executive office announced Tuesday that the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency has approved Gov. Gaylord Nelson's request for $500,000 to complete Wisconsin's statewide planning and development program. The project is the first of its kind in the nation.

Nelson said the grant will make it possible to complete a plan that "will give Wisconsin long-range development goals in all areas of growth including economic development, population expansion, recreation facilities, transportation patterns, land use and building needs for the next 20 and 40 years."

and; $22,593 in Waupaca, and $100,298 in Winnebago.

Sales for the first five months of 1962 totaled $118,493 in Calumet; $546,215 in Outagamie; $94,050 in Shawano; $194,543 in Waupaca, and $797,922 in Winnebago.

Percentage of the drive quota reached is 66.5 per cent in Calumet, 53.8 per cent in Outagamie, 45.4 per cent in Shawano, 62.9 per cent in Waupaca, and 63.2 per cent in Winnebago.

U.S., Soviet Relations in 'Stalemate'

Both Sides Fear Use of Nuclear Weapons by China

BY WASHINGTON LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Sometimes the obvious is either overlooked or doesn't sink in right away. A case in point is what's happening in America's relations with the Soviet Union.

Lawrence

A "stalemate" is really now in effect. Will it develop into one of those long periods of peace in world history based on the maintenance of a "balance of power" without a big war?

Thus, it is obvious that Premier Khrushchev, without signing an agreement with this country, and President Kennedy, without signing an agreement with Moscow, have both come separately to the conclusion that Red China's possession of nuclear weapons could lead to a nuclear war which might destroy everybody. If nuclear arms are to be withheld from Red China by Russia, isn't it logical then for the United States, as a balancing factor, to withhold nuclear weapons from France or any other country hereafter? Back of this unwritten understanding emerges, as always in diplomacy, a powerful reason why a given policy makes sense from the standpoint of both sides.

Irresponsible

Red China could be an irresponsible wielder of nuclear weapons. This could lead to a nuclear war that could destroy Russia as well as other areas of the world. Hence Moscow is unwilling to build up Red China as a nuclear power.

France, of course, wouldn't be irresponsible or go counter to American desires, but if the United States distributes nuclear data and equipment and helps build up other nations allied with it, the Soviet Union couldn't logically withhold nuclear knowledge and weapons from Red China.

Now this doesn't mean that America intends to reduce in any way its nuclear power. Nor is there to be any hesitation about using its nuclear weapons if circumstances ever require it. What is planned is to concentrate nuclear power inside the NATO alliance for defensive purposes in Europe and leave the main control to the United States because the truly big missile bases are in this country.

Significant Address

A most significant address on the subject was delivered last Saturday by Secretary of Defense McNamara. It was prepared after the most intensive study by Secretary of State Rusk and officials of all departments concerned, as well as by President Kennedy. There was no mention of France, but the speech was aimed at answering Gen. de Gaulle's argument for a separate national nuclear force of his own. Mr. McNamara, without referring to the Soviet relationship to Red China, made this statement which applies to both sides in the "cold war":

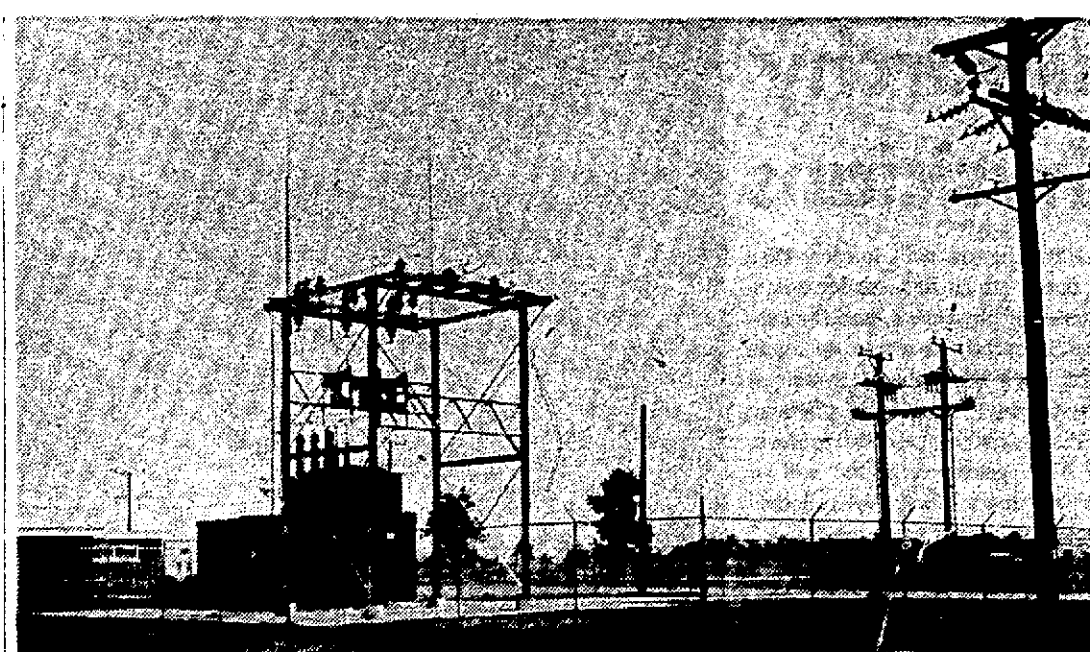

The creation of a single additional national nuclear force encourages the proliferation of nuclear power with all of its attendant dangers.

Now the word "proliferate" means to "grow by multiplying new parts in quick succession." If Red China gets nuclear weapons from the Soviet Union, members of the Communist bloc in Europe — Poland or Czechoslovakia — would demand them, too. And if West Germany had a nuclear force of her own, East Germany would want to be protected by some kind of nuclear strength. Even though these might be small forces in themselves, they could add up to an array of national units, any one of which could plunge the world into a nuclear war overnight. Secretary McNamara put it this way in his speech:

strength for military purposes by any power except the United States and the Soviet Union would be a costly, dangerous and, indeed, superfluous project. Even Great Britain is finding it an expensive undertaking, and her contributions hereafter will be largely supplementary and not independent of NATO. Secretary Rusk has gone to Paris to argue all this out with Gen. de Gaulle, but the McNamara speech laid the main points on the line ahead of time.

President Kennedy has, therefore, developed a sound policy, and, since it happens by coincidence to be based on the very same kind of argument that appeals to the Soviet government in its relations with Red China, the world may hope for a period of "stalemate."

It goes without saying that the big task still is to avert a nuclear outbreak between the Soviet Union and the United States. And this means that monkey business in and around Berlin has to be suspended by Mr. Khrushchev, and the "crisis" atmosphere avoided so that fears of a surprise attack on the nuclear side will be largely removed. Now this doesn't bar the build-up by either side of conventional forces — ordinary armies and navies. The United States wants to strengthen NATO and already has promised some missile-bearing Polaris submarines.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)— Police put the heat on three warmly dressed women arrested in a South Miami shopping center and charged with larceny.

Classes Open at New Campus of Carthage College

KENOSHA (AP) — Classes for an eight week summer session opened Tuesday at the new Carthage College on a hilltop campus overlooking Lake Michigan, while workmen still were applying finishing touches to the buildings. The old Carthage campus will continue to operate at Carthage, Ill., nearly 250 miles away, but administration of the school founded 115 years ago by the Lutheran Synod of the West has moved to Kenosha.

Monday was registration day for some 75 students taking part in the summer session, which is directed toward southeastern Wisconsin teachers who want to earn credits. Landscaping, roadbuilding and planting is scheduled to be completed by Sept. 9, when registration for the fall semester begins.

Rising College Costs Call for Action to Save American Dream

BY LESLIE J. NASON, ED. D., Professor of Education, University of Southern California

Every deserving boy and girl should have an opportunity to go to college. This is the American dream. But can this dream be a reality in the face of skyrocketing costs? The U. S. Office of Education predicts that a year at college will cost from $3,000 to $5,000 by 1970, depending on the school. This is about double the present cost. At the same time, it is predicted that the average family income loans on the basis of need come in America will increase from the present $7,000 to $9,000 a year in 1970. Thus college costs are rising faster than family income. Students and parents are going to need a helping hand.

One solution would be a vast program of federal scholarships. Another would be government loans to students.

I have a suggestion that would combine the two — and encourage the student to do his best work as well. Let's grant government loans on the basis of need buildings and equipment. We can use them more hours a day, more days a year. One of the most successful classes in my memory was a trigonometry class of 60 held from 4 to 5 p.m. They wanted an education so badly they were willing to come at any hour.

We can increase the number of community colleges. They are close to home and thus cut living and traveling expenses for students and their parents.

We can give closer attention to the drop-out problem which adds to the expense of running a college. The drop out's college admittance has been processed. He has taken tests. He has taken up the time of counselors and instructors. All these things have cost money. That portion of the cost over and above what he has paid must be paid by others.

Every capable boy and girl deserves an opportunity to go to college. Let's do what we can to make that opportunity possible—even in the face of rising costs.

Mr. Kuehn Speaks Out

Mr. Kuehn, the convention choice for the Republican nomination for governor, has spoken out in sentences of model clarity on the subject of state finance and taxation that has been the topic of so much shilly-shallying by our state politicians during the last half dozen years.

He stands for a general sales tax, with a system of credit refunds having the effect of exempting the basic purchases of most individuals and families, as a means of raising such new state budget revenue as probably will be needed to replace the present selective sales tax, to stabilize the already high rate of income taxation, and to bring more money into municipal treasuries to reduce or to avoid an increase in the staggering load of property taxation.

This is a plain, honest and realistic program. It comes closer to the blueprint for tax reform that was put forward two years ago by the "blue ribbon" tax commission than any other politician has yet dared, including Gov. Nelson, the creator of that commission as an instrument of popular education in this politically volatile field.

The Republican candidate also is on strong ground, we believe, when he challenges Mr. Reynolds, his prospective Democratic rival, to explain where he will find the money with which to permit the repeal of the compromise selective sales tax which his friend Gov. Nelson initiated a year ago.

Mr. Reynolds was eager enough, early in his campaign, to denounce that levy but he has been chary about explaining just how he would accomplish its repeal if he is elected governor.

He has talked vaguely about income that now is excused from the income tax, without giving details. Does he propose to repeal personal exemptions, as for dependents, for medical and hospital charges, and such matters that during the whole history of this tax have been outside the claims of the tax assessor?

That can be the only thing he can mean, and we have a hunch that when he acknowledges the fact, some of the doctrinaire devotees of the income tax may have some second thoughts about their candidate.

Let Mr. Reynolds say exactly what he means, and Wisconsin can have a fair and square debate of the kind that it has needed for the last decade of murky and timid public discussion of the central problem in political affairs of these times.

Mr. Kuehn is depending on the conviction that when the state-local finance issue is understood, his will be the preferred way. We share that conviction. Let the discussion proceed. The next statement is due from Mr. Reynolds.

Doctors and Independent Voters

Would the doctors of America support the Kennedy Medicare bill if they were free to vote their own opinions? Members of the Kennedy administration frequently have charged that doctors are ruled by a small group in charge of the American Medical Association and therefore are not free to express their real opinions in the present battle over the Medicare bill. Recently the magazine Modern Medicine, published in Minneapolis, polled 28,000 doctors on this question. The results indicate that 62 per cent of the doctors favor the Kerr-Mills Act which is backed by the American Medical Association. Only 10 per cent of the doctors favor the Kennedy administration's King-Anderson bill.

About 17 per cent of the doctors voting favored the Bow bill to finance health insurance for persons over 65 by income tax deductions of $125 for individuals and $250 for couples. Only 4 per cent voted for the Javits bill which would offer an option of three different plans, all financed by an increase in Social Security taxes.

However, the doctors are not shy and many of them, possibly one-third of those voting, reinforced their ballot marking with sharp comments such as, "Down with the rich boy's phony socialism!"

Those who favored the administration's King-Anderson bill were equally salty in marking their ballots. One wrote, "The AMA needs to change or it will become an old relic like the DAR."

A considerable number of the doctors did not mark the ballot at all but sent it back with such comments as, "All the bills are a form of socialism." One wrote, "The card you sent seems not to ask me whether I am for or against sin, but which sin I prefer."

It seems the doctors are decidedly more independent than the advocates of the Social Security means of financing have indicated.

A 3-Year War on Juvenile Delinquency

Americans have been pretty well convinced that money can do anything. Perhaps it can cure juvenile delinquency. At any rate the nation is going to give it a try.

President Kennedy recently announced that the United States, the city of New York and foundations and private sources will provide $12,600,000 to finance a social experiment among the 107,000 persons living in the lower East Side of New York intended to strike at the roots of the juvenile delinquency problem.

The 3-year project is called "Mobilization for Youth" and is described as "the most advanced program yet devised to combat delinquency on a broad scale." The President was joined in this announcement by Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, chairman of the President's committee on juvenile delinquency, Abraham A. Ribicoff, secretary of health, education and welfare; Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg, Mayor Wagner of New York City and members of the New York Congressional delegation.

The efforts of the workers will extend from organizing the play of the 7-year-olds to examining the political structure and community attitude of adults. An urban youth service league will be formed to provide jobs for the 16 to 21 year olds and "adventure corps" will be formed to interest the boys from 9 to 13. A pleasant coffee shop featuring art and folk music and improved welfare services will be provided for troubled families. There will be special school programs, both youth and adult, community development programs, a narcotics demonstration project and a program to rehabilitate juvenile offenders.

The undertaking is based on a theory developed by Mobilization for Youth, Inc., of New York City, which holds that there must be a systematic approach to the problems of juvenile delinquency. The project will be directed by James E. McCarthy, a 45-year-old graduate of the University of Notre Dame, who has specialized in youth and social work.

The lower East Side was chosen for this experiment because the New York City youth board recently reported that delinquency offenses for each 1,000 youths between 7 and 20 years of age in this area rose from 28.7 in 1951 to 62.8 in 1960, an increase of 118 per cent. During the same period the over-all increase for the city was 110.9 per cent.

Many efforts have been made in various communities of the nation to meet the juvenile delinquency problem during the past 10 years. Through those efforts a great deal has been learned about the problem and some communities have had considerable success in eliminating it. However, this is the most extensive effort ever proposed and should make great progress not alone because of its strong financing but also because the project will be based upon knowledge gathered in many different localities during the past decade.

The juvenile delinquency problem has been nothing short of a national disgrace in many areas including the one proposed for the experiment. There is no way of knowing in advance what the result will be but it can be said most certainly that no more worthy project could be chosen and if it succeeds it will benefit the nation beyond all estimates.

What Others are Saying

Minneapolis Hurt By Newspaper Strike

From The Charlotte Observer

A prolonged newspaper strike in Minneapolis has wrought great change in the life of that city, particularly in the business community.

U. S. News & World Report relates that profits have been deeply cut for retail stores during the seven-week idleness of the Star and Tribune presses.

Some firms have managed to keep up their sales volume by pouring more money into advertising, including special circulars which are poor substitutes for daily newspapers.

10 Per Cent Drop

Figures of the Minnesota Federal Reserve Bank showed that department store sales in Minneapolis had dropped 10 per cent from a year ago, at a time when 600 news and business office employees.

The Minneapolis newspaper blackout demonstrates again the importance of daily publications to major cities — a lesson underscored when Detroit's dailies were idled.

Cow Runaround Costs $5 a Head

SPRINGERVILLE, Ariz. (AP) —Catherine Fisher was furious when she found eight cows clopping across her recently planted lawn. She notified police and the animals were corralled in a city-owned lot.

That night, her husband, Bob, said a crew of his construction company had knocked down a farm fence and eight cows had escaped.

"And on top of that," he said, "some old lady called the police and I have to pay $5 a head to get those cows out of city custody and back to the owner."

Lake Making Will Not Damage State Conservation Program

Editor, Post-Crescent:

In a recent editorial, you question the part of Gov. Gaylord Nelson's new outdoor resource program that would spend state funds to help create 25 to 30 new lakes in southwestern Wisconsin over the next ten years. Your editorial states that "any substantial lake-making program will divert so much of this new conservation program money as inevitably to sidetrack worthy enterprises that will have a statewide importance and usefulness."

The fact is that of the $50 million in the governor's program, only $1.5 million — or 3 per cent — is set aside for creating new lakes. Of the $10 million appropriated in the first two years of the new program, only $90,000 is earmarked for new lakes, or less than 1 per cent.

The reason these new lakes cost the state so little is to be found in the federal Small Watershed Act. Under this act, the federal government pays the cost of building a dam on a project it has approved for flood control. The federal government will also pay half the cost of building an improved dam that will create a permanent body of recreational water.

Under the governor's program, the state will be paying only the other half of the cost of the improved dam, thus relieving local governments of the task of providing these funds. The federal government will continue to approve the projects, to pay all costs of the basic flood control dam, and to pay 50 per cent of the costs of the improved dam.

Thus, we will be adding substantial recreational waters for the people of Wisconsin at a relatively little cost to the state.

Hadn't a Chance

From the Orlando (Fla.) Sentinel

The talkative lady was telling her husband about the bad manners of a recent visitor.

"If that woman yawned once, Albert, while I was talking, she yawned a dozen times."

"Maybe she wasn't yawning, dear," said the husband, "maybe she was trying to say something."

Looking Backward Slavery Abolished in Territories

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Monitor for June 26, 1862.

Our great and good President has done another good deed and signed the following most righteous enactment:

"Be it enacted that from and after the passage of this act there shall neither Slavery nor involuntary servitude in any of the Territories of the United States now existing, or which may at any time hereafter be formed or acquired by the United States, otherwise than in punishment of crimes whereof the party shall have been duly convicted."

Officers of the Ritchie family planning the family reunion the following weekend at Bear Lake were L. D. Hershberger, president; Robert Lindsay, vice president; Mrs. Anna Stanley, secretary; A. C. Lindsay, treasurer, and Mrs. Hershberger, historian.

Mr. and Mrs. William Buetow, Appleton, were planning an auto trip through Europe with their two children, Ellen, 8, and Robert, 6. The family was to leave for New York City that week by car, which they planned to take with them to tour Germany, the Scandinavian countries, Holland and Switzerland. Mr. Buetow was to attend the International Hairdressers convention in Paris while his family visited relatives in Germany.

School Redistricting Nears Achievement

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The districting fight in the legislature may obscure the fact that the next fortnight will record another achievement in reforming the political map of Wisconsin that may very well loom more important in the history of the times.

The July 1 deadline for the consolidation of all common school districts into operating high school districts now seems certain to be met with a ratio of success that in the perspective of the history of Wisconsin school affairs appears little short of miraculous.

The last gasp of the opposition, desperate and weak although it was, came with the dismissal of the appeal of some southwestern Wisconsin residents in the state supreme court a few days ago. It never was clear what the basis of the appeal was, and the court significantly dismissed it without bothering to write an opinion outlining its reasons. There is no doubt whatever that the legislature is the constitutional arbiter of school organization in Wisconsin. It can set up the kind of a system it wants. It wants an integrated grade through high school pattern, in consistent districts, and that goal has now virtually been achieved.

THE POLITICS

In a very real way, this achievement of a totally new system of school service organization in the state is a testimonial to the patient plugging of the state department of public instruction during a period of more than two decades. The originator of the campaign was the late John Callahan, a plain, humble and patient man, who yet knew what he wanted and knew that what he wanted would take time.

Callahan as far back as 1939 won the legislature over to his view that the system of tiny school administrative districts that survived from the frontier had to be modified to meet the changing demands of a modern age. The pace was slow. But in virtually every legislative session there was another slight advance in the direction of larger districts, with better tax foundations, that could support better schools, more teachers, more diversified services. The school transportation laws in a succeeding decade contributed mightily to the campaign, giving it a logic that even the most obdurate champion of old-fashioned institutions could not refute.

Callahan's successors merely walked in his foot prints, and although Supt. George Watson during his term had some painful controversies, the present superintendent Angus Rothwell is achieving the final goal with astonishingly little difficulty.

THE LESSON

The lesson here is of the value of patient leadership in the re-fashioning of public service institutions.

Had John Callahan demanded in 1939 the consolidation of some 10,000 school districts into the fewer than 800 that will survive on July 1, he would have been laughed out of the capitol. A proposition of that kind would not have survived ten seconds on the floor of either house. Yet step by step the goal has been achieved, and men and women on rural routes who shouted rebelliously only a few years ago are quiescent, if not wholly content, about the pattern of events that has followed.

There have been compromises in the school reorganization campaign. History may very well show that the option given to suburban districts to join city schools without accepting liability for other city services was a costly mistake. Almost surely it will weaken an already weak position of the cities in their physical growth problem and damage some of the larger municipalities already threatened with strangulation by rings of obdurate satellite suburbs. Nevertheless, the July 1 achievement of school reorganization will deserve to stand as a landmark in the reforming of public institutions according to the public will.

Retail Salesman Builds or Breaks Good Relations

From the Gasoline Retailer

The retail salesman is the connecting link between the dealer and the supplier. Given proper materials to work with (that is, potentially good dealers and sound company policy), the retail salesman can build good relations or he can wreck them.

He can put over a company project, or he can scuttle it. He can help a dealer become a prosperous, happy businessman, or he can lead him into a disgruntled business failure.

Writer Feels Band No Credit to City

Editor, Post Crescent:

I was one of the several thousand spectators who witnessed Appleton's fine Flag Day parade. Of all the fine bands in this parade, why do the parade officials insist on placing the Appleton City Band at the head. It belonged at the tail end, or better yet, about two miles behind the rest of the parade.

As a former resident of Appleton, it is appalling to me to see the shape which this group of so-called marching musicians has deteriorated into. Both appearance and talent (musical and cadence wise) are atrocious. They are not fit to lead any parade. Why has such a grand old institution as the City Band been allowed to get into such a state.

When one sees a city band such as the Kimberly Community Band, I wonder what goes on in Appleton. The way Appleton spends millions of dollars, I should think that the Common Council could appropriate a few thousand dollars to make the kind of band that would make every citizen of Appleton proud of their City Band; a band that would be fit to march in any parade, any place, and still represent the City of Appleton with dignity.

I am led to understand that the members of the City Band do receive some kind of gratuity for their services. If this be so, I would think that the City of Appleton could exercise more control over their appearance, both in dress and marching. (It looks as though 90 per cent are just tagging along.) About the only uniform part members have in common is a hat, and not all of them have that.

I should think that many younger men, graduates of the outstanding Appleton High School band, could and should be encouraged to join the band and give of their services. The gamut of age in the Kimberly Community Band is far ranging, so why not the Appleton City Band.

Somewhere along the line something is wrong. It is either time for a change of leadership; for a bigger amount of support from the city; or tragically, for the band's final demise.

I would think that the Appleton Post-Crescent through its editorial pages; the Chamber of Commerce, Mayor Mitchell, the Citizens of Appleton, could get behind a campaign to improve, to refine, to mold a city band that every one in Appleton would be proud of, for I believe that every resident of Appleton would not only be proud of a fine band, but that it also would bring prestige to Appleton, to the Fox River Valley, and indeed, to all of Wisconsin.

Announces Failure

Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, announced the failure about 20 minutes after launch. He had returned hours earlier from Johnston Island.

Announcement of the failure followed a silence on radios monitoring the countdown. It said: "A Thor booster was launched tonight at about 10:47 p.m. HST (4:47 a.m. EDT) carrying a nuclear device, designed for one of the high-altitude tests in the current U.S. test series from Johnston Island. Due to a malfunction in the system, the nuclear device was purposely destroyed without a nuclear detonation.

ing on area as well as population.

They were introduced by Republicans and could not go into effect until after the 1970 census. They would require endorsement by two successive sessions of the Legislature and approval by the public in a referendum.

Area Proposal

The first was offered by Elmer Nitschke, R-Beaver Dam, and would allow the Senate to be reapportioned on the basis of area as well as population. Under the proposal, a future Legislature would determine how Senate districts would be set up.

A similar constitutional amendment gained public approval in a 1953 referendum, but the State Supreme Court held it invalid. A dozen Republican assemblymen drafted the second plan which would change the constitution to limit each county to no more than 20 per cent of the total Assembly and Senate seats.

Under such a plan Milwaukee County which now has 24 Assembly seats would be limited to 20—or one fifth of the total. Milwaukee County's senate representation would be cut from eight to six seats.

A third constitutional change was proposed in identical resolutions offered by Assembly Republican floorleader Robert Haase of Marinette and Nitschke. It would permit Assembly districts to be drawn without regard to county lines.

Presently, counties cannot be split by Assembly district lines.

Young Couple Held on Open Charge in Death Of Illegitimate Child

JANESVILLE (AP)—Rock County Dist. Atty. Mark Farnum says a young rural couple is being held on an open charge in connection with the death of an infant girl whose body was found in a shallow grave in neighboring Green County.

The district attorney said Joyce M. Day, 22, of Route 1, Orfordville, admitted in a signed statement Tuesday night that she beat her newborn illegitimate daughter to death with a stick early last Friday morning.

Miss Day and Gerald Jeremiahson, also 22, of Route 1, Monticello, are being held in jail, Farnum said, pending the filing of specific charges.

Seek to Amend Trade Measure

Republican Leaders Want to Eliminate Direct Aid Clause

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican congressmen have indicated they will offer amendments to President Kennedy's trade expansion bill, particularly to a provision which permits direct aid to firms and workers hurt by imports.

Rep. John Byrnes, R-Wis., a member of the House Ways and Means Committee, urged the Rules Committee to permit amendments to the measure knocking out the provision and make it easier for the House to vote on the issue.

Administration supporters want the sweeping new measure, which includes a five-year grant of broad tariff reducing powers to the President, brought before the House on a take-it-or-leave-it basis, with no provision for amendments. Debate is expected to begin Monday.

Byrnes said he agrees that the President has to have broad negotiating authority to deal with an economically unified Western Europe. However, he said, he is disturbed by what he described as "a new philosophy that you don't have to worry any more if trade concessions do major damage to an American industry" because of the aid provisions.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., is sponsoring a modified version of the Kennedy bill. But he has only limited support among the minority.

Dirksen has called for an additional year's experience under the Kerr-Mills Act, under which the government puts up the major share of funds to finance state programs for aged needy persons.

Argues for Kennedy Plan

The Senate subcommittee after reported Tuesday that after 18 months of operations the Kerr-Mills Act is in use in only 24 states. It said 88,000 persons, representing 1/2 of 1 per cent of those over 65, are receiving benefits.

The subcommittee said 90 per cent of all payments are being made in California, Massachusetts, Michigan and New York.

Chairman Pat McNamara, D-Mich., used the report to argue that the program ought to be supplemented by the Kennedy plan for financing through Social Security taxes.

He said the survey "shows quite conclusively that, measured against anticipated results, Kerr-Mills has fallen considerably short of the goal set by its more optimistic proponents."

Pistol-Packing Stock Broker A Light Sleeper

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—The way Lloyd L. Ward told it to police, he was sleeping soundly when his wife turned off the late show on television.

Startled awake, Ward seized a pistol, cried, "What's that?" and stumbled over a table. The pistol fired, putting a hole in a bedroom wall.

Mrs. Ward grabbed the pistol, threw it into the carport and told her husband to leave it there until morning.

But Ward, a broker, said it was too valuable and picked up the pistol. While he was trying to remove the shells, the gun fired again, knocking a hole in the carport wall.

Police arrived and arrested Ward. Tuesday, a judge agreed with the prosecutor that a charge of carrying a pistol should be dismissed.

Escapes Were Well Prepared

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Evidence mounted Tuesday that the three bank robbers who broke out of Alcatraz last week were probably the best prepared of the 38 men who have tried to escape "The Rock."

A local federal prison official in Washington, Fred T. Wilkinson, confirmed that the three convicts had set up a secret workshop in a ventilator shaft in back of and above their cell block.

Wilkinson said the men may have had access to this workshop for possibly a year. Found in the workshop were an electric fan that had been converted into a drill, a crowbar and other equipment. The escapees, Frank Lee Morris, 35; John Anglin, 32; and Clarence Anglin, 31, used spoons to chisel out ventilator shaft covers in their cells. They made dummy covers for the holes and apparently moved in and out at will.

Calling All Manatees

Science Taking Look At Sea Cow's Appetite

BY JAMES M. LONG

ROME (AP) — Science is taking a careful new look at the manatee, that large bodied sea cow which ancient mariners mistook for a mermaid.

The scientists are not interested in her siren-like shape, but in her insatiable appetite.

They want to know whether she might be used to chew her hunger way through the aquatic weeds which cause vast damage by choking the world's lakes, irrigation canals and waterways.

UNFAO Unit

A preliminary study by William A. Dill, chief of the inland resources section of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization department of fisheries, indicates that enough manatees probably could do the job.

But Dill wonders whether there are enough of the odd-looking mammals still surviving, or whether they could be bred, transported, and protected from equally hungry fishermen.

The weed clogging of waterways has presented a mounting problem for FAO's fisheries department in recent years. Thousands of dollars are spent annually in a losing battle against the weeds.

Clogging Waterways

Underwater reapers are used in Louisiana canals so that mail boats can get through. Fishermen in some Syrian lakes have to stop their boats every few minutes to clear the weed from their propeller blades.

In Africa, where Lake Kariba was formed in 1958 by damming the Zambezi River, an aquatic weed called water lettuce already has covered a tenth of the surface.

The upper Nile is clogged so badly by the lavender water hyacinth that natives can walk across the river on the surface.

Manatee Report

So FAO scientists took quick notice of the odd-looking mammals recently when a fishery research officer in British Guiana published a brief report saying he found that the weed-devouring manatees were clearing large sections of pools and canals.

FAO said first studies based on this report indicated two manatees 7 1/2 feet long could clear a canal 22 feet wide and 1,600 yards long in 17 weeks.

But there are difficulties.

Nearly Extinct

An FAO summary described the manatee as "a large, bosomy mammal with paddle-like forefeet, no hind feet and a broad, rounded bottom." They inhabit lagoons and large, warm rivers of the North and Central American coasts around the Caribbean, the coast of South America, and parts of Africa.

But they are extinct or nearly extinct in most places.

Once captured, FAO says, the manatee is difficult to transport. Despite its tough looking skin, it bruises easily. Kept under water too long it will drown. And it must not be turned on its back or it will suffocate from the weight of a stomach full of weeds on its dorsally-located lungs.

Man himself provides one of the final difficulties. The manatee has few natural enemies, except man. The manatee is defenseless, easy to spear or harpoon — and delicious to eat.

Gloomy Refugees Quit Algeria for France

sums of money to let him stay on his farm. The third time, the sum asked was too big for him to pay so he left.

Mistreated by Police

In the cities, people left because they were scared of the Arabs or had been submitted to bad treatment by the police. A 45-year-old woman from Oran said that she decided to go after her 17-year-old son had been killed by Arabs as he was standing in front of his workshop.

A young professor said he had been wounded by secret army gunfire as he was trying to rescue one of his Arab pupils who had ventured into the street at the wrong time. The wife of a grocer in Bab-el-Oued, Algiers' white collar workers' district, said that police forces invaded her shop allegedly looking for secret army men and stole all her goods.

Without exception the refugees interviewed said they wanted to be out of Algeria before July 1 when the Arabs would take over. "We don't trust them," one woman told me, "And then it is too sad for us to see them now in command of a country that has been ours for so long."

Gloomy Outlook

Several Jewish couples from Ain Temouchent, south of Oran, said they had to flee because of the secret army, which they labeled as "racist." Apart from them, as strange as it may seem, no other refugee I talked to complained about the secret army. They did everything to defend us and protect our interests," one girl from Oran said.

Most of the refugees have no illusion as to their chances of recovering anything in Algeria.

Some with trusted friends or relatives have left them in charge of their businesses. Others told me that they just left the key in the doors of their shops and went. Next day, Arabs or security guards would strip the shops of goods.

In the country, farmhouses are immediately occupied by members of the "liberation army" as soon as their owners have left. I was told.

Owners of apartment houses tell me that since the day they left, no rent has been paid to them, and that tenants have been advised by the secret army not to make any payment to "deserters."

Property Hard to Sell

All those who had businesses or small factories have tried to sell them but I found only a few who succeeded. The price obtained was about one-tenth of what it would have been a year ago. Land is virtually impossible to sell.

"Why should I pay for it?" asked an Arab to whom a farm in the rich Mitidja region was offered recently. "It will be mine soon."

Cars sell for virtually nothing on the docks of Oran or Algiers. A small businessman from Algiers said that he sold his almost new Citroen for $100. The price of the car now is $1,800.

Most Algerian refugees have little hope that they'll ever see

Casting for Recreation Department Play to Begin

Casting for "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," the Appleton Recreation Department's little theater play this summer, will begin Friday.

Children nine years and older who are interested in singing as well as acting are asked to try-out Friday, beginning at 9:30 a.m. at 213 N. Appleton St.

Dramatic coaching for the play will be handled by director Roberta Krueger, who will work with the music and choral director, Rhonda Cundy.

Miss Krueger, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Krueger, 2330 Gmeiner Road, had been teaching in Manitowoc for five years. A graduate of the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee, Miss Krueger directed the play "Red Shoes" last season. She is in her fourth year as arts and crafts department supervisor.

Miss Cundy is a major in music education at Cornell College, Mt. Vernon, Iowa, where she will be a senior this fall. In addition to her work in "Snow White," Miss Cundy is assisting the recreation department as a leader at Pierce Park and a director of their department singers. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul F. Cundy, 1515 S. Mason St.

Miss Cundy has had experience in camp work, directing church choirs and student teaching.

Scherer New Police Chief in Manitowoc

MANITOWOC (AP)—Elmer H. Scherer, 51, a member of the Manitowoc Police Department since 1936, has been named chief, succeeding Frank W. Tomchek, who will retire July 1.

Scherer has been serving as department inspector.

Tomchek, a member of the department for 42 years, is a Republican candidate for Manitowoc County sheriff.

Travel Agent Arrested for Embezzling

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A warrant charging the assistant manager of a Milwaukee travel agency with larceny as bailee was issued by Asst. Dist. Atty. Aladdin de Brozzo today, after 110 college students, faculty members and parents found in New York that the airplane they expected to take to Europe hadn't been paid for.

The warrant charging that Ernest Garr, of the Voyager Travel Service took $25,800 from the firm between Feb. 22 and June 15 Edwin Bossert, president of Voyager and the complainant in the warrant, told newsmen Garr resigned from the firm last Friday.

Plight of the Milwaukee group became known Monday night, when it was stalled for three hours at Idlewild Airport. Dr. Joseph Northum of suburban Brookfield said that the vacation trip was delayed when the flight from Milwaukee arrived but found that its supposedly chartered Riddle Air Lines Inc. plane was not on hand.

No Second Payment

Joseph Linnell, Transatlantic division manager for Riddle, said that Voyager had asked last December for the charter flight, on behalf of the college group, which was made up of Marquette, UW-M and Downer students. Linnell said a $2,500 deposit was made on the charter at that time, on a total charge of about $25,000.

He said that a second payment of $11,650 was due on April 18, and that when it was not made, the charter was cancelled and his firm had heard no more until the travelers arrived.

Riddle, BOAC, KLM and Israeli air lines officials conferred, and after three hours the Milwaukee group left for Paris on an Israeli jet.

Dr. Northum said that each of the passengers had paid $256 for round trip travel expenses.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. State Men Sentenced For Failing to Report For Non-Military Duty

MADISON (AP)—Two Wisconsin men who claimed they hold minister titles were given two-year federal prison sentences today for failing to report for non-military duty as attendants in a Madison hospital.

U.S. District Judge Patrick T. Stone gave the pair 60 days to change their minds. He said if they chose to report for hospital work he would cancel their sentences.

Roger J. Powers, 24, of Orfordville, and Calvin J. Stranz, Junction City, entered guilty pleas.

Chicken Wire Fence Separates Hong Kong From China's Millions

BY RITCHIE CALDER
Chicago Daily News Service

HONG KONG — A frail fence of chicken wire separates the British colony of Hong Kong from the 650,000,000 people of mainland China. It only needs a few of these to lean against it as they have been doing recently and it collapses. As a barrage holding back a flood of people, it is not very effective.

In the recent spill-over, apart from the thousands who were fed and sent back across no man's land, at least 60,000 managed to merge themselves in the already teeming Chinese community of Hong Kong. They could claim kinship and a sanctuary in the squatters' huts that cling to the hillsides or on the flat roofs of tenements or in the resettlement blocks. Indistinguishably they would become citizens of Hong Kong.

But in some degree this seepage, which in this case became a flash flood, has been going on for years. When the colony was liberated from Japanese occupation in 1945, the population was less than 600,000. Today it is about 3,750,000. That is why the Hong Kong authorities are a bit wary about the world-wide hubbub which accompanied the influx, which started unexpectedly and ended in- explicitly.

Legal Immigration

By agreement, they have for years been admitting 50 a day and that is a flexible figure — for legal immigration. But they have realized that the real intake is many times higher than that — by traffic in illegal immigrants concerned. They are there to settle. And, in the years since the center — into an industrial city, markets of the prosperous coun-work and with mainly Chinese finance — investment not only of their earnings but also of money from Indonesia, Malaya and elsewhere — who have set up the factories and produced the real estate boom in the colony. This the British authorities, with- tribute to the industriousness and good behavior of the Chinese popu- lation. In spite of the overcrowd- ed conditions, the crime rate in the Hong Kong is incredibly low.

So Hong Kong has, with stresses and strains, been providing for the constant incomers by the hard work of the previous incom- ers, legal and illegal. The irony was that at the moment of the influx, which made the world's headlines, hard work and enter- prise were being penalized by dis- crimination against the textiles and cheap electronic equipment that the Chinese small factories were manufacturing. More important than offers of relief or immigration quotas would have been a relaxation of restric- tions on Hong Kong goods in the center — into an industrial city, markets of the prosperous coun-

Win Set of Books During Cappy Dick's Big Contest

BY CAPPY DICK

Somewhere there are five boys and girls reading this column who "Tales" and, in the 12th volume, soon will learn they have become, "Pinocchio" and "Aesop's Fa- ble winners of an exciting prize." That's more than enough. It remains for the contest judges to decide who the five are, but when their announcement is made, the winners will be among the most thrilled boys and girls in the whole country.

The prize they will win is the big 12-volume set of vacation storybook reading entitled "Great Books for Children." Five sets will be awarded as national grand prizes in today's cut-and-paste puzzle contest. They will go to the boys and girls in all the cities where this column is published, whose contest entries the judges find to be best of all.

Included in the set of books are these thrilling stories: "Arabian Nights," "Tom Sawyer," "Treasure Island," "Robinson Crusoe," "Alice in Wonderland," "Black Beauty," "Heidi," "King Arthur,"

Explosives Can Be Used In Capitol Construction

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House decided that it's okay to use explosives on the Capitol grounds, provided they are used in connection with construction tools.

It sent to the Senate by voice vote a bill to amend an 1882 law prohibiting use of explosives there. The tools which will be permitted if the Senate also passes the bill are used to fasten steel and wood to concrete and steel.

New Conference on Fate Of African Nation Begins

If London Talks Don't Succeed, Civil War May Start Over Land

BY SMITH HEMPSTONE
Chicago Daily News Service

NAIROBI, Kenya — Final constitutional discussions to determine the future shape of the British East African protectorate of Uganda, which gets its independence Oct. 9, have begun in London in an atmosphere of tension and gloom.

Obstacles that could well result in a delay in Uganda's independence are the status of three kingdoms within Uganda and a territorial dispute between one of them and a fourth kingdom.

Uganda, which is the size of Minnesota and has a population of 7,000 whites (mostly colonial officials), 50,000 Indians, and 6,200,000 Africans, lies in Africa's green heart, at the headwaters of the Nile.

kingdoms of Buganda (which rims Lake Victoria from the banks of the Nile to the Tanganyika border), Bunyoro to the north of Buganda, Toro to the northwest, and Ankole in the west.

Cause of Dissension
The relationship among these four kingdoms, each intensely jealous of the others, and between them and the remainder of Uganda, which traditionally has been organized along looser lines, has always been a cause of dissension in the cotton-rich protectorate.

Last year, a British commission proposed that Buganda should have federal status and the other three kingdoms (plus the Busoga district, which has a chief, but lacks a special treaty with Britain) should have quasi-federal status.

Enough agreement was obtained along these lines to make the constitutional talks in London last September a limited success.

Will Discuss Situation
Since then, however, Bunyoro, Ankole and Busoga (which lies just to the east of Buganda) have demanded full federal status. Britain, apparently hoping to satisfy these states with the appearance rather than the reality of federalism (a nine-gun salute for their rulers, etc.) has agreed in principle to discuss the situation.

However, the rulers of the four states, led by the Omukama of Toro, state that they want a real separation of powers and virtual autonomy. This amounts to a reopening of questions that were supposed to have been solved at last year's constitutional conference, a development which British Colonial Secretary Reginald Maudling describes as "frankly disturbing."

Even more explosive is the lost counties" dispute between Bunyoro and Buganda. These six counties, which cover the northern half of Buganda, were acquired by it from Bunyoro in two days.

The area to the east of Mubende district was conquered by Buganda before the advent of the white man. Most of Mubende district was placed under Buganda's administration in 1895 to reward Buganda for fighting with the British against Bunyoro, which was resisting the British advance. The kings of Bunyoro over the last 67 years have repeatedly demanded the return of these "lost counties." The British reply has always been that the cession of the counties to Buganda is confirmed by the treaty of 1900 between Britain and Buganda, and cannot be altered.

In some of the "lost counties," a Kashmir Situation exists: the 80 per cent of the population that is Banyoro, a tribe in Bunyoro, is ruled by hated Baganda chiefs. There have been many incidents of arson and crop-slashing there in recent years.

New Commission
Iain MacLeod, who preceded Maudling as colonial secretary, found the "lost counties" issue too hot to handle. Early last year MacLeod passed the buck to a three-member commission, which recommended a referendum on three of the counties. This recommendation was rejected by Buganda.

A new commission was appointed by British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in December of last year. It reported to the British government last month. It recommended that two of the "lost counties," in which the percentage of Banyoro population is 80 and 73 per cent, should be returned to Bunyoro by Buganda.

Central Control
The rest, in which the Banyoro percentage is much lower, should be retained by Buganda, the commission asserts.

Mubende Town, which contains a "witch tree" said to have magical powers and revered by Banyankole tribes, would come under central government control if the commission's report is accepted.

For his part, the Omukama of Bunyoro refuses to give up his claims to those counties that the commission maintains should remain under Baganda control.

No Tempest in Teacup
On Sept. 17 of last year, I wrote that "if no equitable solution is found (the lost counties issue will lead eventually to misery and war in Uganda.)"

In October of last year, I warned that "no such equitable solution has been found."

The commission, composed of Lord Molson, Lord Listowell and Viscount Ward of Witley, confirms the Chicago Daily News' appraisal of the situation.

Two Men Fined for Breaking Game Laws

WAUPACA — Two people were fined by Municipal Justice George Whalen Monday night for conservation law violations.

Carl E. Danke, 27, Readfield, admitted fishing without a license and was fined $25 and costs.

Duane A. Brunkey, 26, route 1, Waupaca, admitted not having a sufficient number of life preservers in a motorboat and was fined $10 and costs.

situation in which no lasting settlement could be expected; at worst it could lead to bloodshed."

Recognize Possibility
Thus the British government has taken official cognizance of a fact that the Chicago Daily News Foreign Service has been explaining for months: that war drums will throb in Uganda when independence comes this autumn if a solution is not found to the question of the "lost counties," whose red soil contains the graves of 16 Banyoro kings.

The constitutional conference now in session in London offers what may be the last chance to forestall such a tragedy.

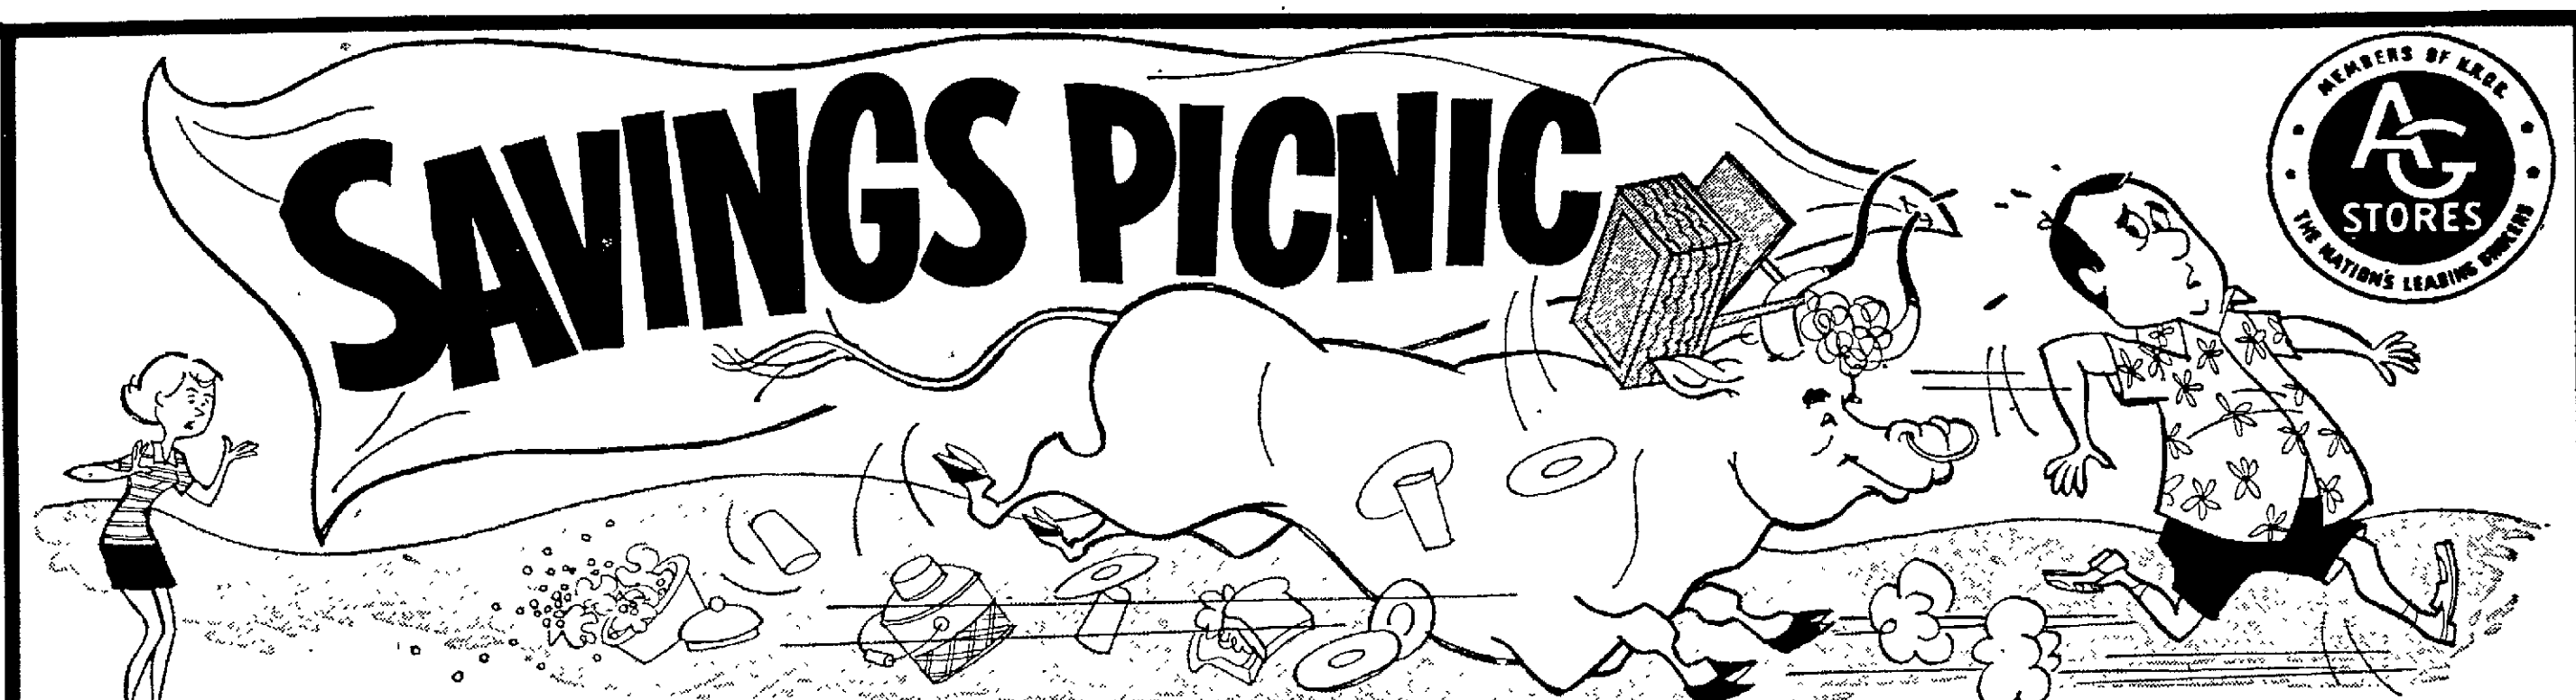

Manawa Man To Head Banking Unit

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Myrtle G. Hales of Manawa is the new president of the Wisconsin Bankers Association.

Hales, executive vice president and cashier of the Farmers State Bank in Manawa, was elected at the group's 66th annual convention Tuesday to succeed Carl A. Biederman of Oshkosh.

Other officers elected included Earle G. Fisher of Tomah, vice president; Donald N. Baxter of Milwaukee, treasurer; and John M. Eldred of Beloit, Frank A. McElroy of Wausau and Keith A. Garnatz of Ladysmith as members of the executive council.

Nineteen Wisconsin bankers who have completed 50 years in the business were honored by the association Tuesday night.

Bring Along A Sketchbook!

High Cliff State Park was the perfect setting Sunday for an artist and his sketchbook. Members of the Appleton Gallery of Arts and the Junior Gallery of Arts took pencil and paper on their field trip Sunday and roamed the woods. A day of tramping up and down hills whetted appetites for a picnic supper and laid low some of the more ambitious artists before the sun went down.

Miss Phyllis Davidson and Mrs. Roy Schulze, worked over their sketches from a comfortable spot at High Cliff State Park Sunday. Members of the Appleton Gallery of Arts took advantage of the park's many scenic spots to make drawings which will undoubtedly become oil or water color paintings later.

Artist or Not, anyone who sees a scene like the one above is tempted to record it for future enjoyment. At left, Miss Joy Olson and Mrs. Dale Hanson use a stone wall for their sketching comfort as they attempt to draw the view below. At right, the artists are seen coming out of the woods along a shaded path.

Charles Kolb, Above, had had enough of climbing hills and tramping through the woods. He managed a few minutes for a needed siesta. Above right, Mrs. Richard Mullen also succumbed to King Morpheus. At left, the artists are shown early in the trip, as they approached their sketching targets with eagerness and enthusiasm.

At Right, Fred Schmidt gives Mrs. M. L. Embrey an assist at a rocky place Sunday during the Appleton Gallery of Arts field trip at High Cliff State Park. The artists had a picnic supper when they had finished their sketching.

Can You Paint Over Mildew?

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN
Q: We have a ranch-type home, built on a concrete slab with radiant heating in the concrete floors. We would like to install rubber tile in our family room. Will the heat affect the tile?

A: Properly installed, and provided that the floor temperature is kept below 85 degrees F., neither the rubber tile nor the adhesive used will be affected by radiant heating in the floor underneath. The same standards for resilient floor covering of any type apply with or without floor heating.

Q: Our family of eight moved into a new slucco house about three years ago. That spring was very rainy and the problem of water in the basement wasn't solved until summer. During the spring our bathroom walls (painted dry wall) mildewed. Since then I have washed over the mildew, until I learned it is a spore. A month ago I read that mildew can be killed by scrubbing with a solution of water, trisodium phosphate and ammonia. I scrubbed hard with a brush and even used scouring powder to get rid of the spots. Then we put an automatic dehumidifier in the bathroom and waited to see if the mildew returned before we painted. It is back right where it was before. The dehumidifier is set for 50, but seldom runs because the house is so dry.

The hardware store tells me there is a very expensive special paint to apply as an undercoat to prevent mildew. Could we paint over the mildewed dry wall or must we kill the mildew first? My friend told me they heard a crack one day in their house and learned that their 2 by 4 footer had rotted; apparently the previous owner had solved the mildew problem by covering it up

Judge Gustave Keller was guest speaker at a dinner meeting of the Opti-Mrs. Club Thursday evening at Alex's Manor House. with metal tiles and the mildew had spread.

A: Mildew spores must be killed before any type of paint or coating is put over the area; a scrubbing solution (or a household bleach solution) you used is effective, but should be left on at least four to five minutes before being rinsed off, to kill the mold spores. Mildewproof paints are available at paint dealers; as previous owner had solved the mildew problem by covering it up

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

THOUGHTFUL "FINGER GRASPERS"

You commented in one of your columns about some people who are "creepy" hand shakers. Perhaps I can clarify for you why some do not give the firm palm-to-palm clasp which you recommend. It is possible that like myself, they are in reality showing consideration for the other person. Since childhood I have been very much embarrassed by excessive perspiration on the palms, a condition for which there is apparently no cure according to my physician. I have been advised against the use of anti-perspirants because a more serious condition may result. Obviously I do not wish to offer my wet palm to anyone, and unless I am wearing gloves at a time when hand shaking is inescapable, I use the "finger grasp". So you see all of us "creepy" hand shakers are not lacking in consideration.

Davis

Louise Davis Answers:

I stand corrected but only in cases like yours which are in the minority. But as you imply, it would be more charitable for all of us receiving the "finger grasp" to assume that he or she has an affliction, and thus form no opinion or criticism.

NO SAUCERS

At a buffet style luncheon, dinner or supper, may one eliminate the saucer where cold cuts and salads are served so that the cups can be placed on the larger plate? It is awkward to juggle dishes with both hands.

Louise Davis Answers:

Yes, the saucer may be eliminated. Hostesses have plenty of leeway in planning buffet style parties when there are no traditional rules to follow. Expediency and convenience are the main considerations.

A Lovelier You

Cook Cuts to Hot Work

In the heat of summer a homemaker is caught in a dilemma. Should she keep her home fresh and inviting at the expense of her energy? Or should she cut corners and save the energy that saves her own sparkle?

Time-motion experts say she can have it both ways. The trick turns on the simplification of chores, and these are some of the ways:

Cut lugging to a minimum. Let a serving cart, or even a child's wagon, do the lugging for you. It will tote stacks of linens and dishes to and from areas where they are used, sudsed and stored. A cart is handy, too, for rolling cleaning supplies from room to room. Where there are stairs to climb, a large basket is the step saver.

Cut cleaning time via speed-up stringy texture, gets more efficiently into crevices.

Cut into the drudgery of laundering chores. Wash a load in the cool of each morning, rather than waiting until you have a staggering accumulation. While ironing, sit on a chair adjusted to the height of your board. Or if you must stand, try a sponge rubber mat under your feet. Of course, by sticking with drip-dry fabrics, you could skirt the ironing job, or nearly so. Most drip-dries come out pre-ironed, particularly if you finger-press them while sopping wet.

Using these tips as starters, you'll find dozens of ways to achieve that ideal combination—a refreshing home and a refreshed you!

"Beauty of Housework" explains how to keep home and self sparkling with time to spare. Also included are an effort-saving work plan, shortcuts in house-keeping, and advice on how to give yourself a beauty treatment while engaged in your duties. For your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of your newspaper, enclosing 20 cents in coin and a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope of a dustcloth and, because of its

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

INDEPENDENCE IS ALWAYS A GOOD THING!

RIGHT ☐ WRONG ☐

Wrong. Group life, say the sociologists, depends upon knowing what to expect of each other. And if we are to know what to expect, people must act according to approved standards. It is true that a certain amount of independence is necessary for progress. But a considerable degree of conventional behavior is essential to hold society together. When and how much independence is good, and when and how much is harmful, is a crucial question about which we need much more research.

Is there one, simple rule for success?

Yes— No—

Yes—the rule followed by every sail-boat skipper. Learn how to make the forces around you work for you, rather than against you. In human relations, these forces are the dynamics of human nature. We have a new full-sized book, "The Art and Skill of Getting Along With People," written to help you understand these human forces.

Your Problems

Miniature Jungle Bars Man From Vacationing With Wife

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: I just read the letter from the woman who can't get her husband to go anywhere. Well, it's too bad her husband can't stay home with my wife.

Six years ago I married a girl who is now 27. I am 29—so you can see we aren't exactly old folks.

My wife will not take a vacation because she has 191 house plants. Our home is like a miniature jungle. She has every imaginable kind of fern and crawling ivy potted in urns, bottles, buckets, crocks and what have you. She says she can't leave the house even for a weekend, because the plants must be watered in a special way. Also they must be rotated so they will receive the right amount of sunlight.

We haven't had a vacation since our honeymoon. I'm not the type who enjoys going off alone. Am I a fool? If my wife won't take a vacation with me this summer, should I go fishing alone? I need your advice.—Jungle Fever

Dear Jungle Fever: Tell your wife to line up a plant-sitter. If she refuses, leave her home with the fern and let her rotate the urns to her heart's content. You, my friend, should go fishing—without her.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 18 and crazy about a girl who is 16. She is a real doll, Ann—sweet and pretty—and her disposition is sunny all the time. The trouble is her folks won't let her go out unless her 17-year-old sister has a date and comes along.

Her sister is a compulsive eater. This means she eats too much because she has a problem. I think it's probably the other way around—she has a problem because she eats too much.

My buddies have been swell about helping out. They have fed this elk till they're flat broke. Now I have run out of buddies. Last Saturday I had to take the elk to the movies, too, because I couldn't get a date for her and I wanted to be with my girl.

Is this fair? What's your advice?—Three's a Crowd

Dear Crowd: No, it's not fair. An older person should speak to your girl's parents in behalf of both their daughters.

It's generous to fix up a sister whenever possible, but getting her a date should not be the price you must pay for permission to go out. And the overweight girl needs a doctor more than she needs dates.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was never so disgusted in all my life as when I read your advice to the girl who was separated from her husband and asked you if it was all right to go out with men.

You said, "No—you are still married." You must be nuts. Her husband is still married, too, but I'll bet he isn't living like a monk. I am 24 years old and have been separated from my jerk for three years. Getting a divorce in Canada is like trying to figure out what the Russians are going to do next.

I'm caught in that well-known trap—legally married to a man who has a girl friend on the side. He doesn't have to marry her as long as he's married to me. So what am I supposed to do while he pulls every trick in the book—shrivel up and die?

Some of your advice sounds mighty noble on paper, but it's a lot easier to write it than to live by it. So why don't you stop being so smug and puritanical?—Maple Leaf

Dear Maple: I never said it was easy to sit home and sweat out a divorce. The question was, "Should a woman who is still legally married accept dates?" The answer was, and is, "No—not if your value your reputation."

A girl of 24 isn't in imminent danger of shriveling up and dying if she passes up dates until she is no longer married.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Before You Marry—Is It Love Or Sex?" enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Griddle Broiling

One of the best ways to cook thin steaks, chops or slices of ham is on a griddle on top of a range. Many griddles have burners with a thermostatic control which provides exact and even temperature. Fat drains off during cooking so smoke and odor is no problem. The meat should be turned at least once. Season after cooking.

YOUR CHILD MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS

1 OUT OF 3 DOES

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms. Luckily parasites that medical experts say infect 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it. To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W Tablets do... and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge... small, easy-to-take tablets... special sizes for children and adults.

Stocks Weaker After Showing Early Profits

Losses Between
1, 2 Points Common
To 'Blue Chips'

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market weakened after an early advance and was irregularly lower early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .10 at 212.40 with industrials off .20, rails unchanged, and utilities up .10.

While most changes were narrow, losses of 1 or 2 points by some blue chips were disturbing to market averages.

IBM Gain
IBM was up about 7 points at the start but showed a net loss of more than 3 in the afternoon. Polaroid wiped out a 3-point gain and was fractionally lower. Xerox cut a 2-point rise to a fraction.

U.S. Steel dropped a couple of points. A prominently published news article noted Big Steel's declining profit margins.

Du Pont was another 2-point loser. Ford stretched its loss to about 2. General Electric and Eastman Kodak slipped more than a point apiece.

Aerospace Issues
Aerospace issues held to the upside. Fractional gains were posted by Boeing, United Aircraft and Douglas Aircraft.

Gold mining stocks showed little change following their rally of Tuesday. Tobaccos were mixed. General Motors dipped a fraction. Aside from Ford, other auto stocks showed scant change. Rails were unchanged to easy.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 3.09 at 568.52. Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange in moderate trading.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds moved slightly higher.

LEGAL NOTICES

AN ORDINANCE PROVIDING CONTINUITY OF COUNTY GOVERNMENT. THE SUCCESSION TO COUNTY OFFICES, AND DEPARTMENTS, AND THE PRESERVATION OF PUBLIC RECORDS.

The County Board of Supervisors of the County of Outagamie, Wisconsin, do hereby enact the following:

SECTION I. POLICY AND PURPOSE
(1) Enemy action could seriously affect all government operations. In some instances existing resources of governments may be completely destroyed. It is, therefore, imperative that all governments provide for their continuity and increase their capability of operating under attack conditions. The survival of the Nation depends on the ability of Federal, State, and Local governments to carry out their responsibilities in the event of enemy action.

(2) DEFINITIONS as used in this section.

(a) "Enemy Action" means any action taken by an enemy of the United States causing, or which may cause, substantial damage or injury to persons or property in Outagamie County, Wisconsin, whether through sabotage or by use of bombs, missiles, shells, or atomic, radiological, chemical, bacteriological or biological means, or other weapons or methods.

(b) "Unavailability" means absent from the place of business and/or office, or unable, for physical, mental, or legal reasons, to exercise the powers and discharge the duties of his office.

(c) "Emergency Successor" means one who is designated for possible temporary succession to the powers and duties, but not the office.

SECTION II. SUCCESSION TO OFFICES AND DEPARTMENTS HEADS
(1) All county officers and department heads are hereby directed within thirty (30) days to designate a successor and one alternative successor to perform his duties and exercise his powers only when said officer or department head is unavailable because of enemy action to the powers in person. It is the duty of each county officer and department head to file with the County Clerk and also with the Outagamie-Appleton Director of Civil Defense a list showing the name and address of such successor and alternate successor, and to advise the County Clerk in writing of any changes thereafter.

LEGAL NOTICES

(2) During the absence of the county officer or department head by reason of enemy action, such successor or alternative successor shall have all the powers and perform all the duties of the officer or department head whom he replaces.

(3) Change of Successors
The designation of an emergency successor or alternative successor shall continue at the pleasure of the officer or department head designating him, but he (incumbent officer or department head), or any subsequent incumbent of his office may change the rank in order of succession or replace at his pleasure any emergency successor so designated.

(4) Termination of Operation of Provisions of this Section.
The authority of emergency successors to succeed to the powers and duties of officers and department heads, shall expire two (2) years following the inception of the emergency resulting from enemy action in the form of an attack, but nothing herein shall prevent the resumption before such time of the filing of vacancies and the calling of elections in accordance with applicable constitutional and statutory provisions. The County Board Chairman, acting by proclamation, or the County Board of Supervisors, acting by joint resolution or act, may from time to time extend or restore such authority or the operation of any such provisions upon a finding that events render the extension or restoration necessary, but no single extension or restoration shall be for a period of more than one (1) year.

SECTION III. PRESERVATION OF RECORDS
(1) It shall be the duty of every county officer and department head to take immediate steps toward the preservation of all records which he is bound by law to keep, preferably by having said records microfilmed and placed in secure storage.

SECTION IV. PENALTIES
Section 8 of the Outagamie County Civil Defense Ordinance, April 1960, shall apply.

SECTION V
This ordinance shall take effect and be in force on 20th June, 1962.

Drug Isoniazid Used To Form 'TB Shield'

Isoniazid, a drug used in treating tuberculosis, looks promising for protecting family members of persons who develop TB.

In a Public Health Service study of 25,000 such contacts of newly reported cases of TB, half were given the drug daily for a year, while the rest received dummy pills or placebos. About four times more persons taking the useless pill did develop TB themselves compared with those getting the real drug.

To treat cancer, the ancient Greeks and Romans reportedly used a Mediterranean species of a plant called Aristolochia indica. Hospital Fund Drive Raises $1,284,147 of Final $3 Million Goal

Citizens Expected to Donate Make Campaign Difficult, Official Says

The St. Elizabeth Hospital building campaign has raised $1,284,147 toward the $3,000,000 campaign goal.

Daniel P. Steinberg, chairman of the special gifts division, conducted a combined report meeting Tuesday in the absence of John Hayes, general chairman.

A bar-graph had been prepared showing the performance percentages for the giving segments in the campaign. Steinberg pointed out the apparent apathy reflected by the graphs in the sections of community life where the interest for the hospital should be the greatest. He pointed to the fact that the lowest performance records, to date, belonged to the people who should normally be the largest supporters of a project of the importance that this is to the community.

"The people who have the largest vested interest in the Fox Valley communities seem to be the slowest ones to come forward with their financial support during the early part of the campaign, when it is most important to set an example for the public, and lead the way in this vital St. Elizabeth Hospital Building Campaign. 'The very people who should be the leaders in giving are making it difficult to raise funds at this point in the campaign because of their hesitation and apparent apathy,' he said.

Steinberg praised specific efforts of the first groups and their attitude toward St. Elizabeth Hospital, saying, "In isolated cases there are small groups who have accepted their responsibility early and with an honest appraisal of what their fair share is in this community project."

He named the 100 per cent participation of the hospital employees as the outstanding example of cooperation.

The final report meeting for the St. Elizabeth Hospital modernization and expansion campaign will be held in the Conway Hotel at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Patrolman Back on Duty At Menasha

MENASHA — Patrolman John Chapleau returned to duty today on the Menasha Police force, his attempted suspension by Police Chief Peter P. Clark withdrawn.

Chapleau and Clark presented their cases Tuesday night to the police and fire commission, which ruled that the seven-day suspension given Chapleau Monday would not go into effect.

Clark and Chapleau conferred this morning in Clark's office on the dispute, which arose out of a break in radio contact between the police motorcycle and police station because of a dead battery.

Clark this morning told the News-Record Chapleau never had been suspended. This morning he re-issued the revolver, badge and Sam Brown belt to Chapleau at the end of their conference.

Clark's letter to City Clerk Harry Kind also remains on file. The letter informs the city offices that the suspension would be without pay from June 18 to 24, inclusive.

Mayor John Klein objected to being quoted in Tuesday's story of the suspension as saying the suspension was an example of harassment by Clark, who is retiring June 30.

Appleton Manufacturing Co. will move some of its operations into the Steiner Tissue Co. plant in Kaukauna in July.

Appleton Manufacturing has obtained from Steiner Tissue a five-year lease on the plant and options to occupy it for an additional 29 years. The plant is owned by Green Bay and Mississippi Canal Co. and was leased to Steiner.

Appleton Manufacturing is now hiring no new employees for the moving slitter and paper tube winding machines into the plant. In addition to the operation of these machines, it will ship finished goods from there.

Lease Starts July 1

The company hopes to have its machines completely installed by July 1 and begin producing by July 15. Its lease takes effect July 1.

Steiner Tissue Co., a division of Steiner American Corp., Salt Lake City, was ordered to close the Kaukauna plant in October, 1961. Since then it has been moving its operations to Steiner-American plants in Gary, Ind., and Albany, N. Y.

Steiner converted tissue into tissue products in the plant. At its peak, it employed 80 people.

Charmin Paper Plans Major Expansion

New Machine,
Plant Addition,
Warehouse Planned

GREEN BAY — Charmin Paper Products Co. today announced plans for another major expansion program at its Division B in Green Bay.

Already engaged in the largest single growth step in its 70-year history, Charmin will move ahead this summer on a new round of construction which will result in a new paper machine, the firm's eleventh; a 100,000 square foot addition to tissue converting facilities; a 200,000 square foot warehouse for finished product storage; and a substantial increase in capacity of the pulp mill.

M. J. Auchter, vice president-manufacturing, said the Division B program, including work now underway, is expected to provide nearly 200 new jobs when completed by late 1963.

Site preparation work for the four new projects is underway, with pile driving for the new paper machine building and some foundations for new converting buildings already complete.

The general contractor now has a construction labor force of about 550 persons and expects to have a total of 650 within the next month or two. Nearly all of these have been employed or will be employed from the Green Bay area. Approximately 120 local area sub-contractors and suppliers are participating in the construction work.

Adding Courthouse Floors Impossible, Architect Finds Works Board Still Wants Old Depot

Buckley Differs, Says Appleton
Would Buy Street It Now Owns

The Appleton board of public works has again approved buying the old Chicago and North Western Railway depot, despite insistence by Ald. George Buckley that the city already owns the site, because if it is sold to someone else, the new owner might construct a building across North Street.

Buckley maintained that anyone who bought the site would investigate the street situation and find out he wasn't getting the street, but only the land on which the depot is located.

Walker disagreed and said the other buyer the railroad supposedly has lined up believes he would be buying the street too.

Involves North Street

The city is interested in buying the old depot as part of the project because it has been used as a public street for more than 25 years. It never was blocked off East to connect with Packard one day a year as required by law to maintain private ownership, Buckley says.

Cited State Cases

The aldermen cited several Wisconsin court cases where cities obtained streets by reason of public use, and asked for time for more research.

Robert Walker, a railroad representative, claimed the city does not own the street and said his firm wanted an answer on the purchase by today, because the railroad supposedly has another buyer for the site.

Works Board Still

However, because of the need site to have the planning commission approve all land purchases, final approval by the council will take at least two weeks.

Walker told the board it would be to the city's advantage to buy the site, because if it is sold to someone else, the new owner might construct a building across North Street.

Buckley maintained that anyone who bought the site would investigate the street situation and find out he wasn't getting the street, but only the land on which the depot is located.

Narovec Suggests Wing Over Parking Lot; Other Agencies Seeking Space

Additional floors on the Outagamie County courthouse are impossible, an Appleton architect told the county board committee studying expansion of courthouse facilities today.

George Narovec told the committee tests indicated the structure could not hold additional floors because soil conditions under the courthouse structure are "mushy" and limit the weight of construction.

Narovec suggested a 90-foot expansion to the courthouse's north wing along Seventh Street to Elm Street at a cost of $500,000. The structure could be built on stilts.

Narovec said, with parking available under the first floor. The structure would be spread over the courthouse's rear parking lot.

The Outagamie County jail, which has no maximum security section, would be benefited by the expansion, Narovec said, in that Huber law prisoners could be assigned cells in the new expansion and would never come in contact with prisoners in the jail's maximum security section to be created in the jail's present south end facilities.

3 or 4 Floors

The proposed expansion could be three or four floors, if it was decided to abandon the parking lot and obtain parking at adjacent properties.

Narovec said the proposed north wing expansion would include basically all the space proposed one year ago for the front of the building. The county board has vetoed construction to the front of the present courthouse.

Some members of the county board, however, are of the opinion some parking facilities could be included in the front of the building.

Narovec said if the expansion were approved, construction would follow the design of the present structure, with more use of glass and steel. Narovec said the still construction of the expansion would allow traffic flow around the courthouse and would not cut down greatly the amount of cars in the parking lot.

Opposed to Narovec's north wing expansion was Committee Chairman Walter Fredericks, who said he did not think the wing would provide enough space. Fredericks argued the best possible solution would be to divorce the present jail and sheriff's department from the courthouse, and build an independent structure, to house the department and jail.

Remodel Old Cells

The space of the old jail would then be used for office purposes after a remodeling of the cells. However, Fredericks was told that any complete construction of the county jail would require the county comply with new state regulations for jail construction and the cost may be prohibitive.

Three agricultural agencies asked the committee today that they be included in plans for new space. County Forester Ronald Herman, the Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Service, and the Farm Home Administration told the committee today they are seeking new quarters and would like to rent space in the county courthouse.

Scattered in Downtown

All three agencies are scattered throughout downtown Appleton. Joseph Rickert of the ASCS office said. Rickert said the agencies are considering construction of a building on Wisconsin Avenue if they do not get approval to move into the courthouse.

Rickert said no plans are definite on the proposed new building, but all three agencies have final approval to proceed.

A proposal that the committee meet with County Court, Branch 2 Judge Gustave Keller to discuss jailing procedures was not acted on by the committee. Supv. Arthur Hoolihan suggested the committee request Judge Keller refrain from seeking waivers on juvenile offenders and trying them in Branch 2. Hoolihan said this would cut down on some crowding in the jail.

Vincentian Father to Give Solemn Novena in Appleton

Services will be held at 8:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. each weekday and at 7:30 p.m. Sunday. They will include the novena prayers, a sermon and benediction. The papal blessing will be given on the closing day.

40 Hours Devotion

Father DeWitt will preach on the Blessed Virgin Mary during the first six days of the novena, and on the Eucharist during the final three days, during which 40 Hours Devotion will be observed in the parish.

Father DeWitt, who is celebrating the 20th anniversary of his ordination this year, is one of 32 priests in the Miraculous Medal novena band, which works throughout the United States, with headquarters in New York City. He has spent the last five months in California.

The main purpose of the organization, he said, is to increase knowledge of the Blessed Virgin Mary and the Immaculate Conception.

Open to Public

The novena is open to the public. Father DeWitt will be available for private conferences.

Charges Set For Streets

Appleton Board Determines Prices On Improvements

Assessment charges for three types of street improvements were set by the Appleton board of public works Tuesday.

A dust tack coat of asphaltic road oil on newly graveled streets will be 22 cents a lineal foot, a patch and double seal coat will be 50 cents a lineal foot and a turnover and double seal coat will be 74 cents a lineal foot. The charges are a few cents higher than last year.

Board members approved hiring Fennel-Brey Engineering Corp., Manitowoc, to supply a resident engineer to oversee construction of the sewage plant $1.5 million addition.

The firm's price of $900 a month was the lowest of three received. The highest was for $1,350 a month. The Manitowoc company has supplied resident engineers for several other Appleton projects.

GRESHAM — Moonlight trips in a stolen car ended for seven Gresham youths Tuesday after the group was arrested by the Shawano County Sheriff's Department.

The car, owned by James Shephard of Neenah, was stolen June 6 and kept hidden during the daylight hours in a wooded area near Gresham.

Arrested were Jerry Moede, 20; Jerry Ninham, 19, and Larry Moede, 19, all of Gresham; two younger Gresham boys, a Gresham girl and a Milwaukee girl. They were scheduled to appear in Shawano Municipal Court today.

According to authorities the group admitted using the car at night and said they took trips to Milwaukee, Sturgeon Bay and Green Bay.

The sheriff's office was tipped off Monday when a Gresham resident called and said he suspected a stolen car in the area. The car was found by police in a wooded area two miles north of the village.

Board to Air Fee for Sewer Outside City

KAUKAUNA — The board of public works is planning a meeting with Richard Lehrer, Town of Buchanan resident, to discuss establishing a rate for furnishing sanitary sewer service to Lehrer.

The city originally granted Lehrer service without charge when quon's et huts, used to help solve a housing shortage shortly after World War II, were located on his property. The quonset buildings have been removed, but the city continued to furnish Lehrer with sewer service.

Board members discussed the possibility of setting up a sewer service charge and offering a contract to the property owner, but then changed their minds in favor of a meeting with Lehrer to see whether a satisfactory arrangement could be reached.

Legislature Joins To Blast Reynolds

Rallies Behind Democratic Plan to Hire Legal Counsel

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The legislature's deep resentment toward Atty. Gen. John W. Reynolds boiled over Tuesday night as the Republican majority in the state senate rallied behind a proposal by a Democratic senator authorizing the employment of legal counsel to defend the legislature against Reynolds' reapportionment lawsuit in the U.S. courts.

While the speeches of the indignant legislators about Reynolds' plan were loud and bitter, the incident may show that the attempt to attain legislative redistricting through court action, in the event of the legislature's failure to achieve a reapportionment act, is still being carried to the United States Supreme Court for final decision.

Extraordinary Session

Reynolds is principally responsible for the fact that the legislature is now in extraordinary session. He got a decision from a panel of three federal district judges warning that they would enact a reapportionment by judicial decree, unless the lawmakers speedily perform their duties under the state constitution. Court, asserting that "the issues Reynolds is a Democrat and is here as grave as those in the prospective Democratic nomination for the governorship. He said Tuesday that, unless the legislature enacts a redistricting act by next Monday, he will return to the federal District Court to demand a judicial order for the appointment of a master who would declare the Outagamie County order a remapping under the authority of the judiciary.

"That announcement apparently but will defend the legislature's enraged Sen. Davis Donnelly of Eau Claire, a Democrat, but one with rural-oriented reservations about redistricting that will speed the transfer of legislative control to southern Wisconsin and its larger cities.

"Reynolds Defaulted"

Donnelly brought in the proposal for the employment of special counsel for the legislature, explaining that normally the attorney general is the legislature's legal advisor, but that Reynolds had defaulted that function.

Reynolds is trying to "deprive of the legislature of its right to legislate," Donnelly charged.

Republicans chimed in bitterly. Sen. Morton of Kenosha asserted that Reynolds should resign, and added that if a lawyer in private practice deserted his client as able the Reynolds has abandoned his legislative client, that lawyer would be disbarred.

Mentions Impeachment

Sen. Krueger of Merrill declared his wish that the legislature carry the fight for its prerogatives to the U. S. Supreme Court, asserting that "the issues are as grave as those in the great Civil War." Sen. Lorge said he was moved to use a word Tuesday that, unless the legislature enacts a redistricting act by next Monday, he will return to the federal District Court to demand a judicial order for the appointment of a master who would declare the Outagamie County order a remapping under the authority of the judiciary.

Postpone Action On Calder Athletic Field

MENASHA — Action on the proposed Nathan Calder Athletic Field project was laid over Tuesday and made a special order of business July 3.

City Atty. Richard J. Steffens promised to have the bonding resolution ready in time for the council to place it on the Sept. 11 ballot as a referendum question. Voters will decide on a $200,000 bond issue.

The referendum is mandatory, the attorney advised.

Construction of the stadium is estimated at $193,029. Banta Co. Foundation in December 1959 gave 10 acres of land at 11th and Warsaw streets and offered $25,000 cash toward the project.

right to do its duty carefully and deliberately without coercion.

Sen. Leonard of Milwaukee, acting Republican floor leader, complained that Reynolds is cynically exploiting his lawsuit for personal political ends.

"Has No Issue"

"We must have somebody to represent us legally, not a politician who hasn't got an issue because he doesn't have the mind to conceive one," he declared angrily.

Meanwhile the Republican leadership put the finishing touches on redistricting bills covering the legislature and congressional districts which will modify the existing map considerably, but will differ in some respects from the measures advocated by Gov. Nelson and legislative Democrats. There will be no action on them until next week, however.

Sawyer County officials elected by the delegates include John Stickman, Clintonville, register of deeds, and David DeCock, Appleton, assemblyman.

The delegates heard several speakers on county government and the state legislature Tuesday. Former assemblyman Harvey Abraham of Oshkosh instructed the candidates for assemblyman. Activities today were centered around state government. Primary elections for state officers were held at noon, and the Badger Boys State legislature organized and considered several bills.

Rallies to Follow

The final elections will take place Thursday noon, and the climax of the week's activities will be inaugural program Thursday evening. Gov. Gaylord Nelson will be the principal speaker at the inaugural ceremonies.

Babysitter's Check On Sleeping Charge Saves Infant's Life

LENA — A babysitter's check on a sleeping infant may have saved the life of a Lena child.

When Gail Teteak and Jeanne Thomson, both 11, arrived at the Willis Udell home the twin sons were sleeping. Later in the morning Gail checked the babies and called in Jeanne when she noticed that Patrick was unusually quiet. The infant's cold skin and lack of breathing aroused the girls. They brought George Steffen from the downstairs apartment, who gave artificial respiration.

The parents returned at that time to give mouth to mouth respiration to the boy until the doctor arrived. Apparently the baby had choked on phlegm in its throat.

Find Stolen Car In Shawano County

The car was being kept in a wooded area near Gresham. Five of the six live in the area. The sixth, a Milwaukee girl on probation, is to be turned over to her probation officer.

11-3 Victory

DUBUQUE — The Fox Cities Foxes fell victim to first-place Dubuque Tuesday night for the seventh straight time dropping an 11-3 decision.

Steve Cosgrove suffered his fourth loss in eight decisions as Dubuque sent him to the showers with four runs on three hits in the fifth inning.

The Packers had grabbed a brief lead on Jim Zeiter's 2-out home run in the second, but the Foxes had tied the count on Tom Denofa's walk and Bob Lewandowski's hit in the third.

Zeiter again gave Dubuque a slim lead (2-1) in the fourth when he singled home Bob Roman, who had doubled.

Davis Relieves

The fourth-inning markers virtually clinched the affair for Dubuque. Pitcher Jesse Davis made his first appearance of the season for the Fox Cities club as he retired the last batter, pitcher Steve Hargan. Davis also blanked the Packers in the sixth.

Dave Pickle came on in the seventh and eighth and the usually reliable right hander gave up five earned runs. Ron Henderson greeted him with a single and Roman and Bell followed later with run-scoring hits. Bell's blow was a 2-bagger.

The onslaught continued in the eighth as three Dubuque runs crossed the plate. Bob Santana, Bob Iglesias, and Zeiter contributed singles in the inning.

Bill Shirah started the action for the Foxes in the ninth with a double. John Scruggs popped up and Jack Seymour was safe on an error. Denofa followed with another walk and Manager Cal Ripken fouled out batting for Pickle.

John Price singled in the final Foxes' run but was the final out of the game when he tried to stretch the hit into a double.

The Foxes placed Davis on the Turn to Page 8, Col. 1

Tonight, Appleton will meet the unbeaten Clintonville squad at Clintonville.

Bob Bleier paced the 8-hit attack for the winners with a double, single and two walks. Weber helped his own cause with a pair of singles and one run batted in.

The score was knotted at 1-all until the fifth when Appleton counted two runs. Weber walked, stole second, went to third on an infield out and scored on an error. Bleier walked, stole second and scored on Dick Stehr's single. The final run counted in the sixth when Weber singled home Mike Sass.

Harold Muskevitch was the losing hurler. He struck out five

If he can just control his temper, the pundits have been saying for the last six years, there's just no, telling what Don Drysdale might do.

A 20 game winner? Easy, the story went, just get that temper under control. He's got everything, the experts said: size, stamina, speed.

And Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers—a calm, placid Don Drysdale so far this season—is finally making the experts look good.

With a firm rein on the fiery temper that has been one of the chief reasons he's failed to make the magic 20 wins in six previous seasons, the 6-foot-6 right-hander is off to his best start and is one of the prime movers in the Dodgers drive to the top of the National League.

He notched his 11th victory Tuesday night as the Dodgers moved out to a 2 1/2 games advantage over the faltering San Francisco Giants. Last season, the big right-hander didn't get No. 11 until Sept. 4.

Howard Hits

His steady nine-hitter and his eighth complete game, along with some lusty hitting by Frank Howard, helped the Dodgers to a 3-2 victory over St. Louis while San Francisco was taking a 6-4 drubbing at the hands of the surprising Houston Colts.

In other National League games, Cincinnati took over third from Pittsburgh by edging the Pirates 2-1. Chicago came from behind to beat Philadelphia 9-5 and the New York Mets broke a seven game losing string, 6-5, against Milwaukee.

Howard's 10th homer got the Dodgers off to a 2-0 lead in the first and he scored the winner on a misplayed grounder in the seventh. He was on third, Ron Fairly on first and there was one out when Duke Snider bounced back to the pitcher, Lindy McDaniel, who unaccountably threw to first

Match Play Opens;
Houston Regains
Golf Team Crown

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Phase Two of the NCAA Golf Tournament starts today: The match play, head-to-head dueling among 64 survivors of the starting field of 215.

But first there was a morning sudden death playoff involving 13 men who tied for the last five positions Tuesday night.

It took a score of 155 to be in the clear, the playoff contestants taking 156. Among this group were Tom Finke of Arizona, who reached the fifth round of last year's National Amateur, and Peter Green of North Carolina, North and South Amateur runner-up two years ago.

Escaping the playoff by a single stroke at 155 was R. H. Sikes of Arkansas, the reigning Public Links champ. Mark Darnell of Purdue, medal runnerup last year to Jack Nicklaus, shot 157 and was eliminated.

3 Sub-Par Rounds

Kermit Zarley of Houston won the medal with a 140 total on rounds of 68-72. His first round 68 was one of only three sub-par rounds wrung from the unyielding Duke course, a par 71 test measuring 6,828 yards.

Charles Layton of Georgia, quarter-finalist last year, had one of the two other sub-par rounds, a 70, for a 143 qualifying score that tied him with Dick Dion of Duke and John Lotz of San Jose State.

Alone in fourth at 145 was James Gabrielson of Georgia, whose second round 70 completed the par battering.

Two rounds today and Thursday will be followed by semifinals Friday and the 36-hole final Saturday.

Houston clinched its sixth team title in seven years, regaining the crown it lost to Purdue. The Cougars had a four-man, 36-hole aggregate score of 538, 10 better than runnerup Oklahoma State.

Elio Chacon, of the New York Mets, slides into third base after belting a triple to right field in the first inning of Tuesday's game with the Milwaukee Braves in the Polo Grounds. Milwaukee third baseman Mathews waits for relay, and Umpire Ken Burkhardt is ready to call play. The Mets won the game, 6-5.

Triumph

NEW YORK (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves came up with too little, too late again Tuesday.

As a result, they dropped a 6-5 decision to the New York Mets and gained the dubious honor of being the only team in the National League over whom the Mets hold the edge. New York now has a 6-4 edge over Milwaukee.

The Braves have a chance of catching up with the Mets today, taking on New York in a double-header. Tony Cloninger (1-1) was nominated for Milwaukee mound duty in the first game, going against Ron Daviault (0-0). In the second game, either Lew Burdette (5-4) or Bob Hendley (3-6) were slated to pitch for the Braves against Will Hunter (1-1).

Gene Woodling and Joe Christopher hit home runs and Roger Craig pitched a seven-hitter as the Mets broke a seven-game losing streak to win Tuesday. A slim crowd of 3,862 turned out.

The Braves made a try to pull out a victory in the ninth inning, but their rally fell short and they could only score one run—which was one less than needed for a tie.

Woodling's home run off the foul pole screen on the left field screen in the sixth gave the Mets their one run margin.

Curtis Loses

Southpaw Jack Curtis was the Milwaukee loser. He came on in relief of starter Ron Piche in the third and the Braves tied the game for him with two runs in the fourth.

Curtis, however, got into trouble in the fifth. The Mets loaded the bases with no one out on Frank Thomas' single. Marv Throneberry's double and an intentional walk to Charlie Neal. Thomas scored the tie-breaking run while Cliff Cook was forcing Neal.

The Braves got two runs in the first on Roy McMillan's double, Mack Jones' triple and an infield out. New York came back

Half-Game by Rapping Chisox

BY JIM HACKLEMAN

Could be the Los Angeles Angels have taken the New York Yankees' place in more ways than one.

The ever-surprising Angels took over third place from the Yankees in the ever-surprising American League race Tuesday night and they did it by beating the Yankees' once-private pals—the Kansas City Athletics. Their 7-4 decision was the Angels sixth straight victory over the A's and their ninth in 12 meetings this year.

Meanwhile, Boston knocked off Cleveland's front-running Indians 4-2. Minnesota moved up by rapping Chicago 9-4. Baltimore won its fifth in a row and handed the Yankees their fifth successive defeat, 3-1, and Frank Lary recorded his first victory in over two months with a neat six-hitter as Detroit blanked Washington 5-0.

Cleveland is now half game ahead of the Twins, Los Angeles 2 1/2 back in third, and the Yankees slumped to fourth, three games behind the Indians.

Hit Four Homers
The Angels socked four homers, three doubles and collected six walks against four Kansas City pitchers but still had to struggle to beat the A's. Angel starter Ken McBride homered off losing John Wyatt in the third and Leon Wagner raised his league-leading total to 19 when he connected with a man on in the fifth, making it 3-1. The Angels also got two more homers from Felix Torres and Lee Thomas.

McBride was chased in the seventh when George Alusik hit a pinch homer, Jerry Lumpe tripled and Manny Jimenez singled. Then Santana of Spain was No. 6, Nicola Pietrangeli of Italy No. 7 and Jimenez and Norm Siebern tagged reliever Art Fowler for singles—producing a run—before Ed Charles bounced into a game-ending double play.

The Orioles, shut out the last year-old Australian. Then came four times Chuck Estrada started, finally gave the hard-throwing Brazil, Rene Schuurman of South Africa, Ann Haydon of Britain, against the Yankees. Brooks Rob-Angela Mortimer of Britain, Les-jones paced Baltimore with a tie-breaking homer against Ralph Terry in the sixth inning and a run-scoring single in the eighth.

Estrada gave up seven hits and three walks in eight innings, but the once-awesome Bombers again showed a frustrating lack of punch by stranding 10 runners and sank to their eighth loss in their last nine starts. The Orioles, just 4 1/2 games off the pace in fourth place, won their eighth in 10 games.

Harmon Killebrew launched Minnesota's assault on the White Sox when he cracked his 15th homer with one on in the first off Juan Pizarro. The Twins got two more off the Chicago lefty in the

That left the gate open for blonde June Robinson, a 21-year-old June graduate of Oregon State, to come through with a 71 for medalist honors.

Miss Robinson, who resembles and plays much like 1960 champion Jo-Anne Gunderson, missed Miss Gunderson's course record by two strokes.

Arizona State University's Sue Meercink and Carol Sorenson captured the team title with a 151 total.

Host New Mexico was second with 157 while Purdue was third with 158.

Miss Hoelmer will meet Sharon Miller of Central Michigan in a first round match today while Miss Robinson plays Sue Maxwell of Oklahoma City University.

Drysdale Accused of Dirty Play by Keane

LOS ANGELES (AP)—St. Louis Manager Johnny Keane, angered on two counts by the conduct of Don Drysdale, accuses the controversial Dodger pitcher of dirty play and promises: "We'll retaliate any time we can."

Drysdale—who slid hard into second baseman Julian Javier Tuesday night and later brushed him back with a pitch—responded:

"If Keane wants to retaliate, I'll be around all season."

Drysdale, who seems to become involved in at least one major controversy a season, picked up his 11th victory as the league-leading Dodgers beat the Cards for the second straight time, 3-2.

In the sixth inning, Drysdale singled and came wheeling into second base at full tilt when Maury Wills hit a grounder toward third. Drysdale, trying to break up a double play, collided with Javier and bowled the slender second baseman over. Javier suffered a leg bruise.

Proposes 3-Day Inter-League Trade Period in June

CHICAGO (AP)—A three-day, inter-league trading period in June, when talent problems are pressing, was proposed Tuesday by Ed Short, general manager of the Chicago White Sox.

Short's proposal was made in a letter sent to Commissioner Ford Frick and the American and National League presidents, Joe Cronin and Warren Giles.

Short suggested a 72-hour span of interleague trading from midnight June 12 until midnight June 15.

At present, major league trading within one league, with waivers required to deal with a club in the opposite league, is permitted until June 15.

Unrestricted interleague trading now is allowed only from Nov. 20 until Dec. 15.

In New York, Frick said he had received Short's letter but had no immediate comment. He said the proposal would be considered at the annual league meetings next December.

New Orleans Makes Bid for AFL Franchise

Racial Question Lurks In Shadows as Loop Meeting Draws Near

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The racial question lurks in the shadows of this city's bid for a franchise in the American Football League, although supporters of the enterprise shy away from comment on the issue.

A New Orleans group headed by businessman Dave Dixon has submitted a formal bid for an AFL franchise and the league's expansion committee chairman—Lamar Hunt of the Dallas Texans—said Tuesday he would vote for the city's admission into the league next week at a meeting in Boston.

Hunt laid down three requisites for pro football in New Orleans—1, proper stadium, 2, proper financial backing, and 3, an advance ticket sale of 20,000.

No Comment
He said he felt the first two conditions had already been met but had no comment on the racial question.

The only mention of the issue by New Orleans backers has been "It will take care of itself when the time comes."

A state law banning integrated athletic competition was declared unconstitutional by federal courts. Nevertheless, the ban has continued — although there are some signs of a gradual relaxation of the policy.

Any move to segregate seats would undoubtedly be protested by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. The NAACP has already complained about similar practices in at least one other major league football town.

Integrated Seating
Integrated seating would bring angry criticism from segregationists throughout the state, who are extremely vocal.

Hunt said that he believed other members of the AFL expansion committee would vote for New Orleans also at the June 25-27 meeting.

While he was here, the City Board of Commissioners said it favored granting use of municipally-owned City Park Stadium for a local AFL team. Dixon has said his group has plans to increase the stadium capacity to 45,000 to meet league requirements. It now seats 28,000.

South Africa's blue ketch Stormvogel finished 1 hour, 10 minutes later with the veteran white schooner Nina 5 minutes astern. This is a handicap race and just used — although there are some signs of a gradual relaxation of the policy.

Adcock Says Longer Hits May Be Result of Changes in Air

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Adcock, cock's teammate, Hank Aaron, who almost went down in base found the range and plunked once managed the Reds, also has found the range and plunked a wind theory.

"The prevailing winds in Cincinnati used to blow in on the hitters," he noted. "But I remember in 1956, it was blowing out. That was the year Frank Robinson came up and he hit 36 home runs. He had never done that well before in the minors.

"So you see, this air business because of a change in the air," it's no more trick to do it. Maybe fitting the hitters."

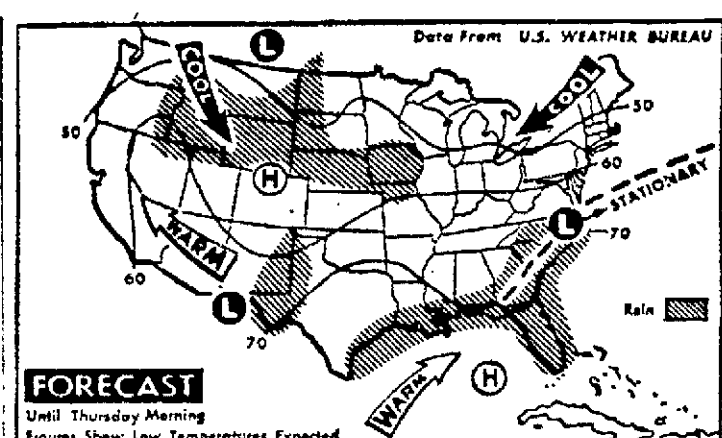

Then he laughed.

"Or maybe, as Casey Stengel has said, the pitchers are just getting tired."

Minding Your Business

By Cyrus Barrett, Jr.

Play It for Keeps, Tying Sales To Sportsmen's Passions

DEAR CY: My business is different. I am a salesman for screens, combination storm doors and windows, and screen porch enclosures. Saturday is one of my best days, because the man of the house is probably around, and he and his wife can decide on what they should have. I don't like to work evenings, which would be another time to hit them.

My problem is getting in the house for a sales presentation, and I would pay good money to get a good door opener. The screen is here, and whatever you think of will be appreciated.

DEAR MARSHALL: All businesses are different! So what? Go to the municipal golf course and copy names off the starting list. Look up addresses in the phone book, and call with a golf ball calling card. It will mean the end of inclement weather, for a while at least.

The rain should end by early morning, and skies will become partly clear by Thursday afternoon. The high today is predicted at 68, and Thursday's should be about four degrees higher. Tonight's low will be 52.

Winds are switching to a northeasterly direction but will continue to be about 8 to 12 miles per hour. Friday's outlook is for fair skies and seasonal temperatures.

For the next five days in the state, temperatures will average below normal, but changes in temperature will be minor. Rainfall will total less than one-quarter inch.

I inquired about a new type of outboard motor, and although it looked good, they wouldn't give me much information. They did make it clear that I had to sell four motors a month, or they would jerk the franchise out from under me.

Where can I get information on good franchisees?

DEAR CY: I believe you can never get ahead in a factory, so am writing you for information on where to get a good franchise deal.

I inquired about a new type of outboard motor, and although it looked good, they wouldn't give me much information. They did make it clear that I had to sell four motors a month, or they would jerk the franchise out from under me.

British Actress Finds TV Shows Relax Her

Margaret Leighton Gets No Ulcers From Performing on Television

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP) — Margaret Leighton, the brilliant British stage and screen star, finds television soothing—not watching it, but acting in it.

This is a rare attitude, indeed. Performers usually drag around on the brink of exhaustion and complain about their incipient ulcers.

Miss Leighton, of course, is rarely seen on American television screens, but when she does appear in a program she is usually also working on Broadway.

Tonight, for instance, she will star in CBS' final dramatic special of the season, "The First Day," which was taped a couple of weeks ago.

On Broadway, Miss Leighton currently is starring in "The Night of the Iguana," Tennessee Williams' Broadway play, and during the weeks of rehearsals and taping was working a 16-hour day.

"But after awhile in a play it is very helpful to have something else to think about," she explained. After a period in the same play, you develop a sinking feeling—a nervousness—and working on something else takes your mind off it."

In the television play, an original Miss Leighton portrays a school teacher who has recovered from a mental breakdown.

It seems that the actress—one of the celebrated Old Vic alumnae and one who has played with the most celebrated names in the British theater—recently has been specializing in neurotic, spinster roles.

Wants Comedy
"I must say," she remarked, "I'm beginning to feel a bit gritty about it. I think it's probably about time I had a comedy to do—before people will think that all I can play are these types of roles."

Her last American network television appearance was three years ago—opposite Sir John Gielgud in "The Browning Version," but she has done considerable British broadcasting.

"I've even made a film while working in a play in London, the tall blonde actress confided. "It was good for the sinking feeling, but films do make one awfully tired. One must live absolutely for that—retire from friends and do nothing else. Actually, a television show is much better. At least it's burving oneself for a shorter period."

British Star Plays Former Mental Patient

BY THE TV SCOUT
9-10 (Channel 2-7-12) — Western House Presents has a worthwhile original drama "The First Day" by Roger O'Hirson. It is worth-while primarily because it gives Margaret Leighton a fine starring part as Nora, a school teacher just released from a mental hospital after a breakdown. This is Miss Leighton's play — she is on almost the entire time.

7-30-9-30 (Channel 2-7-12) — Checkmate's last new show of the season is a pilot film for a series which would star Ed Nelson as a recording company executive. Here he calls in the Checkmates when a singing team begins to have problems. Most of them are caused by the younger member (Paul Carr) who plays a typically egotistical rock 'n' roller.

8-9 (Channel 11) — Hawaiian Eye gets a bit involved in a triple cross story, but if you can follow all the plot twists it is all reasonably logical. We have a romantic square, with a rich mainland couple (Whit Bissell and Randy Stuart) and a young and poor pair of Hawaiian beach bums (Peter Brown and Pamela Austin) occupying the four corners.

8-9 (Channel 4-5) — The problem on The Kraft Mystery Theater is that there is just enough plot for a half-hour show, and the expansion to an hour doesn't help it. Robert Vaughn is a man who deserted his wife (Dianne Foster) for two years, then returns with an envelope stuffed with money and expects to pick up where he left off.

9-9-30 (Channel 4-5) — Play Your Hunch ventures into the nighttime arena. If you've never seen this game show, which Merv Griffin hosts, just imagine To Tell the Truth with a few stunts tossed in and you've got it. In moving to the higher priced nighttime period, they've upped the prize money a bit and added a 10-piece orchestra.

9-10 (Channel 11) — Naked City has Salome Jens and James Cagney in a story which is a refugee from the melodramas of the 20s. She's a lonely heiress, he's an opportunistic chauffeur. There's also the matriarch with a tempting case of asthma, a blackmailing butler, a sweet (?) old aunt and an upstanding family lawyer. Horace McMahon as Lt. Parker is a family friend and gets into the act when Mama inhales too much flower scent and dies. The best part of all this is the ending, you may expect it, but it is still ironic when it comes.

9-10-10-00 (Channel 4-5) — David Brinkley's Journal takes us to the U. S. Naval base in Guantanamo, Cuba, for some particularly intriguing shots of this vital installation and the surrounding ring of Cuban positions. Brinkley talks to the commanding officer, Adm. Edward I. O'Donnell, on Suicide Hill, and you can see the Cuban sentinels on duty in the background. Hidden cameras were used to capture excellent photographs of the Cuban soldiers on duty. There's an interesting talk with a Navy man and his wife who conducts a shopping program on the base radio station. You'll also hear graping by the bachelors on the post and meet some Cuban workers on the base who must keep their faces hidden (Color).

10-20 (Channel 5) 11 (Channel 4) — Steve Lawrence hosts the Tonight show.

Taxes Legally Filed on April 15 Only, Judge Rules in Test Case

HAMMOND, Ind. (AP)—An income tax return is legally filed April 15, no matter how much earlier it is actually mailed, a judge ruled Tuesday in a first test of a special 1954 tax law.

The question was raised by defense lawyers in the trial of George Homer Wolf, a Hammond City councilman charged with evading tax on an alleged $2,000 kickback from a toll road contractor.

Wolf's counsel contended the six-year limit on tax prosecution had run out on Wolf's 1955 tax return, mailed in January 1956. He was indicted last February.

U.S. Dist. Judge Robert A. Grant ruled the six-year limit actually didn't run out until April 15, 1962.

Floor of Exchange Fascinating Scene

BY SYLVIA PORTER

The floor of the New York Stock Exchange, on which the worried eyes of the world have been riveted since the historic stock crash of May 28, is a vast place, two-thirds the size of a football field including its main hall and "garage"—which isn't a garage at all but is instead a smaller adjoining room in which such famous stocks as Telephone, Westinghouse, Union Carbide are traded. Its main hall is five stories high and has huge windows entirely covered by ruffled drapes through the halls are 18 trading "posts" around which are always clustered many of the 2,200 men on the floor on a typical day now.

It's a noisy, startlingly untidy, cluttered with thousands upon thousands of little pieces of paper of various colors, chewing gum wrappers, empty pretzel boxes, etc. It is both antiquated and automated, logical and paradoxical. It's fascinating.

A Funny Story

Now I know, for I have just spent several hours probing, peeking, peering, picking up scraps of paper at the floor of the NYSE. Nothing amusing is happening on Wall Street these days, but this tale is funny. So is its background, and it's loaded with information. So here is the first of three columns about the floor of the Stock Exchange.

To begin at the beginning, early in May I took an executive visiting New York City to see the world's largest stock exchange—on which 85 per cent of the dollar volume of all listed U.S. stocks is traded. He got on the floor, but I didn't.

While there is no constitutional provision or rule or regulation against women visiting the floor, "protocol" demands that a female get permission from on high and therefore, while the executive toured the floor with a guide, I was banished to the public gallery to watch with other sight-seers. With acid tongue in dimpled cheek, I wrote a column about my experience.

"Formal" Invitation

When it appeared, letters and phone calls of protest deluged the NYSE, the collective face of the NYSE's Big Brass turned brick-red and, within 48 hours, I received a letter from Keith Funston, president of the NYSE and a long-time friend (which he told me later he had written on the back of an envelope as soon as he had finished reading the column). It began:

"The President of the New York Stock Exchange and assorted embarrassed vice presidents cordially invite Miss Sylvia Porter to accompany them to the floor of the Exchange either as a woman or as a reporter, preferably as both, at a day and hour to suit her."

He also invited me to lunch in the president's private dining room.

Between the invitation and my visit, the market cracked up and I felt it inappropriate for me to presume on any NYSE official's time during that period, but last week, on a day the market was crumbling but was not chaotic, Funston and I had our date.

Orchid and Entourage

I went to his office, he handed me a big purple orchid, we and the assorted embarrassed vice presidents had an excellent lunch and some deep-down talk about the economy in the private dining room and then I, my orchid, and my entourage descended to run the floor. Some side angles that hit me were:

The litter: Each transaction in stocks involves three pieces of paper—a story I'll seriously report tomorrow. In addition, the men walk around with pads on which they are constantly scribbling memos, quotes, notes—and playing tick-tack-toe too, I noticed—and then dropping the pieces of paper wherever they happen to be standing. They don't smoke on the floor but they chew gum, eat candy and crackers and also drop the wrappers or boxes.

"Don't do it!" cried my favorite vp when he saw the gleam in my housewife's eye and watched me pick up a gum wrapper. Hah.

Shout With Abandon

The noise. The NYSE has a rule provocatively called "open out cry"—which means all transactions must be stated out loud so there'll be no secrets among the men. They "open out 'cry' indeed—all the time—and when something important happens, they shout with abandon. The noise ranges from a persistent hum to an uproar.

The contrast between icy calm and frenzy: The NYSE has another rule—"You gotta walk, not run." The men don't run as they move from post to post to trade stocks and pieces of paper cold eye to cold eye—but they sure rush. Their movements are often frenzied, their voices excited, but their eyes—they're ice.

Tomorrow. How your stock order is handled on the floor.

Olaf's Ardor Needs Cooling; Wedding With Ookie Postponed

NEW YORK (AP)—The wedding of Ookie and Olaf the walrus will have to wait awhile, says the New York Aquarium, until Olaf's ardor cools off a bit.

Olaf, all 1,880 pounds of him, had been living only with seals until Ookie (can't tell a girl's weight) was brought to the aquarium.

At first, reports Look magazine, Olaf just sat on his flippers and looked askance at Ookie. When Olaf finally found out she was a sure-enough walrus, said aquarium director Christopher Coates, he "grabbed her and wouldn't let go for 48 hours. When she got loose, we took her away."

The engagement is still on, said Coates, but wedding bells will not ring for several years until Ookie gets big enough to defend herself against too much woo-pitching.
